Will Curb Uranium Dealing

Hopes to Regulate Shady Promoters Without Hampering Legitimate Ones

WASHINGTON, July 9 (P)—The government is about to administer a sobering jolt to the uranium penny stock binge.

Within a week or so, officials indicated today, the worried Securities and Exchange Commission will announce a tightening of its "small issues" regulation. The hope is to put a curb on racketeering promoters without hampering the legitimate ones too much.

But SEC, whose best efforts cannot protect people who ask to get stung, says that asking a few common-sense questions is still the best protection against the "pushers" and fast-talkers who are riding high on the West's atomic gold-rush.

Nevertheless proposed new rules for domestic shares are in the works and, at SEC's request, the State Department is opening delicate negotiations with Canada in an effort to restore restraints on the promotion of oil, metal and uranium stocks across the border.

The international talks may take quite a while. Relations were strained in 1953 when an agreement clamping controls on mail and phone selling of cheap issues from Ontario broke down.

Meantime, however, a Senate banking subcommittee headed by Sen. Lehman (D-N.Y.) plans to go ahead with a summer investigation. New York has tightened its own securities statutes, and Utah has gained a reputation for being "tough" on intra-state stock promotions.

There's also a movement, sparked by Rep. John B. Bennett (R-Mich.) to repeal by act of Congress SEC's small-issues rule — "Regulation A" — which some consider the chief loophole for fraud.

That may not get far, because it would penalize—along with the racketeers—the vastly larger number of small but legitimate concerns in every industry which "regulation A" was designed to help.

But the proposal is evidence of the growing concern felt in Congress and the administration over a market so disorderly that stock certificates, in some Western towns, have been given away by grocery stores like soap coupons.

SEC knows that Americans have been mulcted of millions—in one fabulous case, of an estimated five million dollars in a single Canadian promotion—but has little authority to punish frauds until after they have been committed. Also, SEC has no wish or desire to block legitimate investment, however speculative, so long as the investor knows what he's buying.

US Correspondents Arrested as Spies, Hungarians Announce

VIENNA, Austria (P)—The Hungarian interior ministry announced Saturday that Andre Marton and his wife, both correspondents for U.S. news agencies, had been arrested on charges of espionage for U.S. intelligence organizations.

The brief announcement broadcast by Budapest radio said two Hungarian employees of the U. S. legation there also had been arrested on the same charges.

Marton, 44, had been correspondent for the Associated Press from 1947 until last February when communications from him ceased abruptly. His wife has been correspondent for the United Press for approximately the same period. Both are Hungarian nationals.

The Associated Press received information last May indicating that Marton had been arrested by Hungarian secret police. At that time the U. S. legation in Budapest could report only rumors that he was being detained and could learn nothing of the charges against him.

City Batters Tax Evasion Check System

Violators Are Open To Discovery By Sticker Clampdown

The chances are getting better all the time that Sedalians who ignore either their personal taxes or the purchase of a city sticker will be caught for tax evasion, according to Mayor Julian H. Bagby and City Collector Paul Alpert.

A web of official investigation is being tightened around available information on these violators and the city police have launched a full-scale enforcement program which so far is showing good results.

In the past, enforcement of the personal tax and city stickers has been lax, with many violators escaping prosecution. Now the city collector and the police department are working in close cooperation, checking on those arrested to see that they don't pay their fine and continue to ignore purchasing a sticker.

This enforcement system has been worked out gradually through experience with breakdowns in the program by the collector's office through lack of cooperation between the various city departments.

As time went on during the past few months, additional safeguards to insure collection have been added such as the collector making out a list of those with back taxes unpaid who therefore have not purchased a sticker.

Collection of the taxes can be enforced only through civil suits but these persons are liable for immediate arrest for not having a sticker displayed, according to Alpert.

Owners are now being summoned by the police when a check on cars driving around town shows they are owed within the city and do not have a sticker. This includes both personal and business vehicles. Their names are sent to the collector's office which prevents them from buying a sticker until their fine and personal taxes are paid.

As another check, anyone coming in to purchase a sticker after the deadline must first get clearance from the police department that they have no unpaid fine for non-purchase and then the collector must clear them on back personal taxes.

The collector also has instituted a system of notifying the police department of those who pay their fines after an arrest but who do not then purchase a sticker, making them liable for re-arrest.

Collector Alpert says consultations are being held with city legal advisors on cracking down against personal tax evaders. He expects to begin several prosecutions in the near future. The city has the right, he said, to take delinquent cases into court for collection although this has not been done in the past.

Although sticker sales are ahead of last year, there are still many who haven't purchased one either because they have not paid their taxes or think they can get away without one, according to Alpert.

The sticker and its related problems, such as personal taxes and personal and real estate assessments, have taken a beating from (Please turn to page 6, Column 5)

Highway Tax Rise Probable

Will Boost Taxes Almost One Billion Dollars Annually For Roads Program

WASHINGTON, July 9 (P)—Some supporters and opponents agreed today the House probably will pass a controversial plan boosting highway user taxes almost one billion dollars a year to pay for a vast new road building program.

Rep. Frank Smith (D-Miss.), opposing the tax increases on gasoline, trucks and truck tires, conceded "I'm afraid thing are lined up pretty well on the other side."

Rep. Russell Mack (R-Wash.), who swung over to support the tax plan after proposed truck tire taxes were reduced, commented "I think the proposal will go through now and will be accepted by the Eisenhower administration."

Both Smith and Mack are members of a House Public Works subcommittee which approved the tax hikes yesterday and will submit the program to the full committee Monday.

After hearings Monday and Tuesday, the full committee is scheduled to act Wednesday and bring the 43-billion-dollar, 12-year highway construction program to the House floor the following week.

Asst. Republican Leader Halleck of Indiana warned, however, that the proposed tax increases could stir up hot opposition.

Halleck said he personally still prefers President Eisenhower's original proposal to finance the road program by setting up a special commission to sell bonds, which technically would be outside the federal debt limit or budget.

Mack said he prefers that plan, too, but it is "obvious" Congress will not accept it. The Senate already has voted 60-31 against the Eisenhower bond proposal and the House subcommittee voted 5-3 yesterday for the tax plan instead.

Three of the four Republicans on the subcommittee supported the tax increase, along with two senior Democrats. Mack said he believes the administration will accept the tax increases as a workable substitute.

Treasury officials will get a chance to clarify the administration's position at the hearing Monday.

Federal Survey Is Made—Wheat Is Termed 'Economic Prisoner' of Governments

By OVID A. MARTIN Associated Press Farm Reporter

WASHINGTON, July 9 (P)—An Agriculture Department survey shows that wheat—a major world food raw material—has become an "economic prisoner" of governments throughout the world.

About 96 per cent of the world's wheat crop is being produced and marketed under government price supports or other forms of official controls.

As a consequence, only an insignificant amount is produced and sold under free economic laws of supply and demand.

In the main, the price-support policies try to maintain producer prices at levels higher than would prevail if the governments did not intervene.

Operating collectively these policies have helped create surpluses of wheat in major exporting nations that now bedevil both growers in those countries and their governments. Particularly is the latter true in the United States.

It has accumulated a record surplus of wheat that has forced a 30 per cent cutback in plantings under a rigid control program.

Many countries dependent on imports for part of their wheat requirements seek to stimulate home production.

Some importing countries offer domestic growers a higher price than that charged by exporting nations. In these countries the production of wheat is not nearly as efficient as it is in such big producing areas as the United States, Canada or Australia.

These importing countries are afraid to lean too heavily on outside sources, even though the latter offer grain cheaper than domestic growers can produce it. They recall past periods of emergency, principally wars, when imports were shut off and shortages developed.

Because of the tension between Western and Soviet bloc powers, few countries which can produce wheat are inclined to put full dependence on imports.

After World War II, about 50 of the world's major wheat exporting and importing countries got together and set up an international agreement designed to stabilize world supplies and price of wheat. One aim was to center production in countries which could produce most efficiently — the United States, Canada, Australia and France.

But the agreement is not working. Twenty of the 44 importing countries which signed are using encouraging greater production at home to hold imports down.

The big exporting nations are supporting wheat prices mainly to assure their producers prosperity.

In reporting on the world-wide wheat support activities, the department said the result is higher prices to consumers than otherwise would exist.

In the United States such policies have been costing taxpayers several hundred million dollars annually. Tax money is used to pay subsidies on wheat sold abroad as well as to buy and store a surplus for which there is no immediate market.

At present, U.S. wheat is offered abroad at about 43 to 75 cents a bushel below domestic prices.

Kefauver Says Ike Attacked TVA 'In Dark'

Releases Report Of Former Adviser To Budget Bureau

WASHINGTON (P)—Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn.) charged today that the Eisenhower administration attacked TVA "in the dark, behind its back and with no chance to reply" to proposals that its power system be sold to private industry.

Kefauver made these charges in releasing a 1953 report of Adolphe H. Wenzell, a new figure of controversy in the Dixon-Yates contract dispute, recommending eventual sale of Tennessee Valley Authority power functions.

Wenzell, former New York investment banker, served in 1953-54 as a consultant to the Budget Bureau. Kefauver asserted in a statement that at the time Wenzell also was assistant vice president and director of the First Boston Corp., which became financial agent for Dixon-Yates.

In his report, Wenzell proposed transfer of TVA's power activities to "a fully tax-paying corporation, the entire capitalization of which in the first instance would be owned by the United States."

He said TVA should continue "its flood control" and its navigation activity by retaining . . . ownership of all of the multiple use dams and retaining control of the operations of the dams so as to maintain the primary objectives of flood control and navigation."

He recommended also that TVA get out of the business of manufacturing fertilizer.

Wenzell proposed that the power corporation adopt a program "for the liquidation of the government securities by the sale, ultimately, of its entire holdings to the public."

Kefauver said this was "the first mention" of having a corporation produce power and feed it into TVA lines—"which is, in fact, the Dixon-Yates proposal with the intervention of the Atomic Energy Commission as middleman."

"It is a plain presentation of thinking within the Budget Bureau at the time, and shows how TVA was attacked in the dark, behind its back, and with no chance to reply," Kefauver said.

The Eisenhower administration and the city of Memphis, meanwhile, were at odds over whether the city has given "proper assurances" that it will build its own power plant.

Ike Will Report To Nation Friday On Geneva Plans

Broadcast Will Give Chance To Set Stage for the Meeting And Counter Red Propaganda

WASHINGTON, July 9 (P)—President Eisenhower will report to the nation Friday night on his plans and hopes for the summit conference.

Two hours after the television-radio broadcast, he will take off for the conference in Geneva.

The broadcast will give him an opportunity to do some diplomatic stage setting for the meeting and to counter Russia's pre-Geneva propaganda line.

The heart of this propaganda, as shown in a new Izvestia editorial today, is that the Soviet government is working vigorously for world peace and that the Western powers must do a lot more than they have done to help produce East-West settlement.

Eisenhower, Prime Minister Anthony Eden of Britain, and Premier Edgar Faure of France will work together as a team, dividing among themselves the problems which they wish to take up with Bulganin. This way they can cover more ground and more effectively meet Bulganin's expected efforts to exploit Western deficiencies.

Murray Snyder, assistant White House press secretary, said "The President will indicate some of the world problems he expects to come under discussion in the conference and describe his hopes for accomplishment there."

Eisenhower has made clear in recent news conferences that his approach to the historic meeting is one of hopefulness. But he said Wednesday that his hope "has got to have greater force" before it can become expectation.

This line, which has also been taken by Secretary of State Dulles, is the opposite of Soviet propaganda.

Dr. D. Woodward Speaks On Dental And Medical Care

Dr. Donald E. Woodward, Kansas City, a well known oral surgeon, was the guest speaker at the regular staff meeting of the Bothwell Hospital, which was presided over by Dr. Gordon Stauffacher, chief of staff, Friday night.

Dr. Woodward was introduced by Dr. Briggs J. Rice, local dentist, who is a friend of Dr. and Mrs. Woodward, who accompanied her husband to the meeting.

Dr. Woodward spoke to the physicians on the subject, "Dental and Medical Relations."

He told the group that close cooperation between the dentist and the doctor was frequently necessary in the accomplishment of proper and adequate care of extensive dental problems.

Dr. Woodward also said he believed that persons with massive dental infections, where multiple extractions were necessary, could be handled with greater efficiency and less detriment to the patient if they were hospitalized and the entire problem was handled with one procedure rather than numerous small office procedures.

The doctor is an oral surgeon on the staff of six hospitals in Kansas City.

Meteor Sought By Local Astronomer

Has anyone found a meteor? Russell Maag, local astronomer, reports that one passed directly over his home Saturday, July 2, about 8:45 p. m.

According to Maag, the meteor passed in a brilliant flash of light, apparently heading due south.

This past week, Maag received a letter from the department of astronomy, University of Iowa, telling of the meteor. They stated that if the meteor is found it will be studied for determination of its size, height of travel, flight markings and other valuable information.

Anyone noticing an unusual upheaval of land that might possibly be the meteor's landing spot is asked to contact The Democrat-Capital or Maag.

ganda. Dulles has asserted that so-called concessions which the Soviets have made, such as agreeing to an Austrian treaty, are actually things which should have been done long ago.

The White House announced that Eisenhower will make his 15-minute broadcast at 6:15 p. m. CST on Friday. About two hours later he will leave by plane for Geneva. The summit conference, bringing Eisenhower to the same table with Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin, will open the following Monday.

Such urban highway plans are only offered to cities of 20,000 or more population. If the proposal carries, $250,000 will be expended by the federal government and Missouri State Highway department to finance the construction.

The Saturday morning meeting was attended by the full steering committee which consists in addition to the chairman, Ray Lippard, of Cecil Owens, W. C. Cramer, Clyde Safford, Norbert Brosch, Jack Faber, Paul Nightingale and K. U. Love.

Chairman Lippard pointed out that Sedalia needed the endorsements of all of its organizations, but above all it needed the active support of all members and citizens to assure passage of the bond issue on Aug. 2, and make the Urban Plan a reality.

Donors Come Forth For Boy Needing Rare Type of Blood

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The emergency heart operation needed by 2½-year-old Craig Price apparently was assured today—thanks to the cooperation of donors with rare type O negative blood.

Little Craig, son of Mr. and Mrs. Desmond Price of Columbus, was to have undergone surgery yesterday, but there wasn't enough type O blood available.

Newspapers and radio stations put forth a plea for donors, and the Price telephone rang all day with offers.

The boy needs only two pints of the blood, and the operation has been rescheduled for next Thursday at Children's Hospital here.

The Prices said the boy was born with an obstruction in the right pumping chamber of the heart. The obstruction prevents the flow of sufficient blood to the lungs.

US Minister Goes To Jail for 10 Days In Italian Incident

ROME (AP)—A minister of the American-supported Church of Christ in Italy was sentenced to 10 days in jail Saturday for affixing a sign on his church building after police had removed it.

The minister, Cline R. Paden of Brownfield and Lubbock, Tex., also was fined 3,000 lire—about $5, pending outcome of an appeal immediately filed in Paden's behalf by Giacomo Rosapepe, Rome attorney who represents the Church of Christ in Italy.

Today's action was the latest development in a long series of conflicts between members of the church in Rome and Italian police.

The decision came just as another Evangelical church group in Rome, the Baptists, sent a message of greetings to Italy's new Premier, Antonio Segni, and expressed the hope that his government would bring an end to "illegal obstructionism against Evangelical Christians" and "respect the constitutional rules for religious liberty."

NIGHT AT THE OPERA: Opening night at the Met, as televised on neighborhood theater screen, had audience shouting "Bravo."

Theater TV Could Become New Neighborhood Feature

By DICK KLEINER
NEA Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK (NEA)—At the moment, there's a lot of sound and fury about pay-as-you-see television. But hardly a word is being spoken or written about another offshoot of TV which could, in the long run, have an even more profound effect on the whole structure of the amusement business.

That is theater television. And there's a good reason why there is little in the way of public debate about it—it doesn't need FCC approval. It is already here, it is being used, its potential is recognized. There's just one little thing standing in its way—public acceptance on a big scale.

And there are those who say the public acceptance will come. Among this group is, of course, the chief spokesman and chief proponent of theater TV, Nathan L. Halpern, president of Theater Network Television, more comfortably known as T-N-T.

Here's how theater TV works: an event is televised to a network of movie theaters. The picture is projected on a movie-sized screen. The audience buys its way into the theater, as they do to see a movie. The theater owner pays a percentage of his take to the television people. That's all there is to it.

The disadvantage is obvious—will the people go out to a theater to see television?

"Yes," says Halpern, "if the attraction is good enough."

And he has past evidence to prove his point. T-N-T has televised many title fights, blacked-out on home TV. The Marciano-Cockell fight, for example, was theater-televised. And, while far from a howling success, more people saw it in the 83 theaters that carried it than were in San Francisco's Kezar Stadium. And the prices weren't cheap—they ranged from $2 to $5 per head.

"Some people," Halpern says, "would rather watch in a theater than in the stadium. It's like being on the 50-yard line. It's often much better than in the stadium—you can be blocks away there."

On interesting psychological development is that people watching on a theater TV screen will often react as though they were there in person. At theatercasts of the opening night of the Metropolitan Opera, there were shouts of "Bravo." And fight fans found the theatercast of the Marciano-Cockell bout so exciting they began to yell and boo and shout

Local Boy With Navy In Mediterranean Sea

Charles J. Rouchka, boilerman first class, USN, of 1600 East Broadway, is serving in the Mediterranean aboard the heavy cruiser USS Salem.

The Salem, flagship for Commander Sixth Fleet, is scheduled to return to the United States early in the Fall.

"Stop it" just as the fans at Kezar Stadium did.

Halpern sees theatre TV becoming a part of a new kind of double feature for movie theaters.

"Nowadays," he says, "the movie studios aren't producing enough pictures for the double-feature houses. Already, the theater owners are crying for more product. I see a time when every day we'll put on a vaudeville show, with only the top names, and televise it to theaters all across the country. They'll program one top Hollywood film, with our variety show as a second feature."

This isn't as far-fetched as it might seem. Already, Halpern's company has 112 theaters equipped for receiving telecasts with another 50 mobile units available for other theaters. And the vaudeville and actors' unions have discussed this plan and found it workable.

Some nights theaters might show full-length Broadway plays—unexpurgated versions, which home TV can't show—and some nights title fights and some the opera and some other top sports events. And, Halpern says, the people will come because "they like to go out once in a while and, too, the picture is so much larger than that they get at home."

In fact, he gets a big kick out of TV set manufacturers advertising 21-inch sets as "giant screen." The smallest theater TV screen is 12 by 15 feet. And most are much larger.

The FCC has no jurisdiction over theater TV because this is transmitted over private wires, leased from the phone company. The FCC just controls publicly-owned channels. So, Halpern points out, "Theater TV doesn't take away free TV from anyone."

More theaters are expected to equip with projection booths with TV machines as soon as the cost comes down. Currently, it will run a theater between $15,000 and $20,000 to get ready. That's expected to drop soon, with mass production of projectors.

One or two problems still present themselves—on an outdoor event, like a summer title fight, there's the weather to consider. The contract nowadays reads for seven days, in case of postponements. Then there's the problem of line failure which, Halpern says

University of Texas To Admit All Students By the Fall of 1956

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—University of Texas regents have decided to admit Negroes to the school beginning in the fall of 1956.

They would be admitted earlier if the school weren't already overcrowded, the board said yesterday. The regents—in what Chairman Tom Sealy called "an historic decision"—also ordered immediate admission of qualified students to the graduate school regardless of color. They ordered admission of all qualified students beginning this fall to Texas Western College, a University of Texas branch at El Paso.

Convic Changes Mind Twice on Guilty Plea

CLINTON, Mo. (AP)—William R. Hoover, 24, was brought here by highway patrol plane Friday from the Missouri prison at Jefferson City.

Hoover had said he wanted to change his plea from innocent to guilty to charges of murder, arson and assault with a deadly weapon in connection with the prison riot Sept. 22.

But after conferring with his attorney here yesterday Hoover changed his mind again and wouldn't plead guilty. So he was flown back to prison.

Henry County Circuit Court has the case on a change of venue.

with a quiet rap-on-wood, so far hasn't happened.

"But the only thing we could do," he says, "is give everybody their money back."

And that's the theater TV picture now. Give it a few years, and it may change the whole entertainment picture.

Riot Leader Goes on Trial On Monday

UNION, Mo. (AP)—Paul Edward Kenton, a 24-year-old ringleader in the state prison riot at Jefferson City last Sept. 22, goes on trial in Franklin County Circuit Court Monday on a first degree murder charge.

Kenton is one of several convicts accused of stabbing and beating to death Walter Lee Donnell, 29-year-old St. Louis convict who had turned informer. Donnell was dragged from his cell and killed as the riot began.

Kenton, who was serving 10 years from Henry County for burglary, larceny and jailbreaking at the time of the riot, was brought to the county jail here last Tuesday by a Missouri Highway Patrol officer.

Circuit Judge Joseph T. Tate has indicated night sessions will be held. Cots and other equipment have been moved into two rooms at the courthouse here to provide quarters for the jurors during the trial.

Thirty extra prospective jurors have been impaneled, bringing the panel to a total of 54.

Kenton has rejected two court-appointed attorneys and made his own arrangements for William F. Bahr of St. Louis to serve as his lawyer. Prosecuting Atty. James T. Riley of Cole County will be in charge of the state's case. The trial was brought here on a change of venue from Cole County.

Rollie M. Laster, convicted and sentenced to death for his part in the Donnell killing, said in a confession read at his trial that Kenton held Donnell's arms behind his back while other prisoners stabbed him.

Laster said he later saw Kenton, armed with a sledge hammer, standing over Donnell's prostrate body.

Another convict was sentenced to life for the Donnell killing.

Will Not Give Shots Even If Enough Salk Vaccine Is Available

ST. LOUIS (AP)—St. Louis and East St. Louis health officials plan to give no anti-polio vaccine shots this summer even if enough of the Salk vaccine becomes available.

Dr. J. Earl Smith, St. Louis health commissioner, said Friday he will wait until October before resuming the shots in the schools here. Most of the first and second grade pupils eligible under the free program received their first shots before the vaccine was withdrawn for further testing.

Dr. Carroll F. Leonard of the East St. Louis health district said he will wait until Nov. 1 to resume the program.

Dr. Smith said: "My decision is based on the belief that children who had first shots have enough immunity—if it is effective on them—to protect them for the season."

One new paralytic polio case was reported in St. Louis yesterday, the seventh this year compared with four at this time last year. In St. Louis County there have been three cases this year compared to seven last year.

The latest victim is Gregory Kirk, 2, of St. Louis.

More Cars Promised For Area Wheat Crop

WASHINGTON (AP)—More box cars for the wheat harvest in Kansas and Missouri have been promised by the Association of American Railroads.

The AAR told Sens. Symington (D-Mo.), Schoeppel (R-Kas.) and Carlson (R-Kas.) that empty cars are being routed into the area, particularly on the line serving Chillicothe, Mo.

Coonskin Haircut
COTTAGE HILLS, Ill. (AP)—Lacking money for a coonskin cap, Jerry Powell, 10, had his dad give him a special hair cut.

Jerry says he likes it better than a coonskin cap because, "I don't have to take it off when I go to bed at night."

Atomic Food Processing May Replace Conventional Style

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food & Market Editor
CHICAGO — (NEA) — I just ate an atomic steak. No ill effects so far.

It didn't happen in a restaurant. I ate it in the research laboratories of a large packing house. Dr. W. M. Urbain, noted for his work on irradiation of food, and Dr. H. E. Robinson, director of the laboratories, were my hosts.

For seven years at a cost of more than $100,000,000 so far, these two scientists and their staff have been experimenting on fresh meat, eggs, poultry, sausage and other perishables.

In from five to 10 years more they hope to have these atomic foods on grocery shelves in airtight containers or plastic bags. They will need no refrigeration, keep at room temperature, not be cooked, yet will taste like fresh.

This will cause a revolution in food processing. You will be able to buy not only fresh-tasting meat and eggs, but also asparagus, strawberries, melons, cherries, corn and other seasonal vegetables and fruits at any time of the year. They will be displayed in grocery stores right alongside packaged goods such as cereals and detergents. Many canned and frozen foods may ultimately disappear from the market.

Eager to taste this revolutionary future, I cut into the broiled strip steak before me. It smelled like a wet dog's hair.

The meat had been exposed to the gamma rays from an atomic reactor. These rays, 100 times stronger than those of an X-ray machine, had irradiated the steak. All food spoilage bacteria had been destroyed. No heat was developed. That is why this process is called cold sterilization.

But the rays had done something unpleasant to the meat. However, here in the Swift & Co. laboratories, as well as in other private industry laboratories and research institutions, and at universities, including Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Columbia, Illinois, Iowa State, Michigan and Wisconsin, scientists are working to overcome the effects on color and taste.

The Army is enthusiastic and has joined in the research. It foresees the time when every soldier, no matter where stationed, can have fresh milk, meat, vegetables and fruit.

How soon will cold sterilization be perfected? "It's a very knotty problem," Dr. Urbain admitted. "But any scientific snag is usually solved if it will benefit the public."

He added, however, that he did not expect this to happen tomorrow. "But it will be in a maximum of a few years. The rewards, once we have licked our problem, will be enormous," he added.

The raw steaks are fed into an "atomic" machine, over which a warning reads: CAUTION—RADIOACTIVITY!

Before biting into my irradiated steak I wanted to know how safe this atomic food is. Dr. Urbain assured me that four generations of rats had been fed it and grown fat. Also, that many men in the laboratory including himself, had eaten it and returned to continue their experiments. He reassured me further that the Surgeon General's office had been testing its safety and to date had reported no harmful effects on human beings.

So I ate the steak. It tasted scorched.

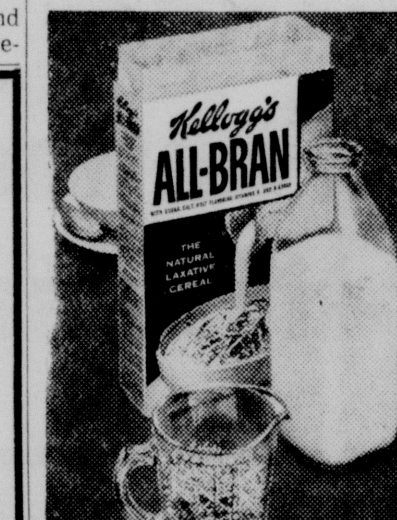

I said no to a second helping. Then they urged me to try just one slice of irradiated bologna.

I did. But it tasted even more so than the beef and had a discouraging color.

Maybe your son will one day proudly carve an irradiated turkey for his own sons and then all give thanks for the blessings of the atomic age. My scientific friends are certain he will.

Soviet Newspaper Says Cracks Are Appearing In the Iron Curtain

LONDON (AP)—The Soviet government newspaper Izvestia said today "more and more cracks are becoming apparent in the Iron Curtain" and called it a sign East and West are coming closer together.

An Izvestia editorial broadcast by Moscow radio charged that aggressive forces in the West brought on the cold war by pointing out "contradictions" in the social systems of the Western and Communist states.

"It goes without saying," it added, "that no one intends to deny the existence of such contradictions. But this not only does not call for refusal to ensure peaceful relations between countries and peoples, but on the contrary insistently confirms the need to support the principle of peaceful coexistence."

HELENA, Mont. (AP)—The first of the modern floating gold dredges to be erected in the Helena mining area has been transferred to placer workings in the Boise, Idaho, Basin. Einstein Signed Warning Against Another War

LONDON (AP)—A last testament to the world by the late Albert Einstein warning that another war would "threaten the existence of mankind" was released here Saturday.

Earl Russell—the British philosopher better known as Bertrand Russell—made public a statement sponsored by Einstein just before his death April 18 and signed by eight other scientists appealing to all nations to renounce war.

The statement said:

"In view of the fact that in any future war nuclear weapons will certainly be employed, and that such weapons threaten the continued existence of mankind, we urge the governments of the world to realize, and to acknowledge publicly, that their purposes cannot be furthered by a world war, and we urge them, consequently, to find peaceful means for settlement of all matters of dispute between them."

Russell, who was one of the signers, issued the statement at a news conference.

Einstein's scientific studies led to the development of the atomic bomb and eventually to the hydrogen bomb, which he called "the very essence of evil."

Relatives Contest Will Giving Large Estate to St. Joseph

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A suit contesting the will of the late George Bode Jr., who left his 2-million-dollar estate to the city of St. Joseph, Mo., for parks and similar uses, has been filed in circuit court in St. Louis County by four relatives.

The relatives—Mrs. Meta Bode Long, a sister; Mrs. Charles Peters, a niece, and her husband, all of St. Joseph, and Mrs. Eleanor L. Thieloff, a niece of Kansas City—alleged in the suit filed Friday that Bode was of unsound mind and that they had a "pecuniary interest of great value" in an earlier will made out by Bode.

Bode, a St. Louisan, built up his estate by investments. He died May 11 at the age of 86. The will, dated in 1945, provided that the entire estate go to St. Joseph, Bode's former home, except for personal effects, jewelry and a coin and stamp collection which were left to Mrs. Peters and her husband.

Remove Time Limitation— Legislation Changes Basis For Veteran's Dental Care

Dental outpatient care for veterans, previously provided on a year to year basis under Congressional appropriations, now will be provided under permanent legislation. W. F. Fidler of the local Veterans Administration office, said Public Law 83 continues all present conditions for outpatient dental care except one.

The lone change in the new law removes the time limitation previously required of two groups of wartime or Korean veterans in applying for treatment: (1) those whose service-connected noncompensable dental conditions or disabilities resulted from combat wounds or service injuries, and (2) former prisoners of war with service-connected noncompensable dental conditions or disabilities.

In the past, these two groups of veterans had to apply for treatment within one year after discharge or separation from active service or by Dec. 31, 1954, whichever was later. Under the new law, they may apply at any time, Fidler said.

Unchanged by the new law as eligible for outpatient dental care are the following groups of wartime veterans:

1. Those whose dental conditions or disabilities are service-connected and compensable in degree—that is, serious enough to rate 10 per cent or more VA compensation—no time limit for applying and no limitation on the number of treatments furnished for these conditions or disabilities.

2. Those whose dental conditions or disabilities are service-connected, but not compensable in degree, which are shown to have been in existence at time of discharge or release from active service. These veterans must apply to VA for outpatient care within one year after discharge or release from active service. They may receive treatment only on a one-time completion basis, unless the treatment is found by VA to be unacceptable within the limitations of good professional standards.

3. Those having nonservice-connected dental conditions or disabilities which are found by VA to be directly related to and aggravating a service-connected condition or disability—no time limit for applying and no limitation on number of dental treatments furnished.

4. Veterans of the Spanish-American War, including the Boxer Rebellion and the Philippine Insurrection—no time limit for applying and no limitation on number of dental treatments furnished.

5. Disabled veterans of World War II and of the Korean conflict period who are training under the vocational rehabilitation acts (Public Laws 16 and 894) who need dental treatment in order to prevent interruption of their training.

Peacetime veterans, to be eligible for outpatient dental care, must meet the applicable requirements of the foregoing groups and, in addition, must have been discharged for a disability incurred in line of duty in active service or are receiving VA compensation for a service-connected disability.

HenningsSays He Opposes Aid to Twins

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Hennings (D-Mo.) says he's opposed to the steps taken by Sen. Langer (R-ND) in behalf of the Finn twins.

Langer announced two days ago that George and Charles Finn, 41, had broken their hunger strike in a prison hospital at Springfield, Mo., after receiving his personal assurance that a Senate judiciary subcommittee on constitutional rights would give them a hearing as soon as Hennings could arrange it. Hennings is subcommittee chairman.

"In my opinion," Hennings said, "to grant a hearing to these men as the price of persuading them to forego their hunger strike might tend to break down the morale and discipline not only at the federal institution at Springfield, Mo., but in all other penal institutions."

Hennings added that he would be glad to hold a hearing after the twins are released, if they still want one.

Meanwhile in Los Angeles, attorneys sought bail for the twins pending a new motion to vacate the judgment which sent them to prison.

Two attorneys said their application for permission to file the vacating motion was based on the grounds there are assertedly substantial questions of law at issue.

British Keep Pets Of All Sizes, Kinds

LONDON (AP)—Britain is becoming one big zoo with nearly 17 million people—one third of the population—keeping in their homes some pet animal ranging from cats to crocodiles.

That statistical item was announced today by George Cansdale, former superintendent of the London zoo, as he opened a new zoo for children on the Isle of Wight.

He said British pets included some 6 million dogs, 6½ million cats, 4 million cage birds like canaries, budgerigars and finches, and 1 million aquarium fish.

Another half million keep snakes for pets and 2,000 others, Cansdale said "possess such unusual pets as crocodiles, panthers, eagles, bears, lions and monkeys."

JEAN DE SPERATI: "I am an art philatelist . . ."

Too Old to Do It Anymore--

World's Best Stamp Faker Retires With His Secrets

By ROSETTE HARGROVE
NEA Staff Correspondent

AIX-LES-BAINS, France — (NEA)—Seventy-one-year-old Jean de Sperati has a claim to fame unique in the world—that of being the only man capable of producing perfect copies of rare stamps.

For more than 40 years, the reproductions of de Sperati gave experienced philatelists all over the world a great deal of trouble and quite a few headaches.

There are some 300 million stamp collectors in the world—about 600,000 in France. There is a stamp market on the Champs Elysees in Paris twice a week known to many collectors. And ever since the stamp was invented, around 100 years ago, forgers and fakers have used their sometimes prodigious ability to forge or "fix" the tiny colored squares. The next step is to present the rare, the priceless stamp before the avid eyes of the collector.

De Sperati, in his early youth a salesman in a chain grocery store in Paris, had always collected stamps. He also painted miniatures in his spare time. From there to "copying" stamps was but a short step.

He became such an expert at this art that last year the British Philatelic Association paid the Frenchman thousands of dollars for a promise never to reveal his secret process for reproducing perfect copies of rare stamps. If the secret leaked out, it was believed it might ruin the stamp-collecting hobby. He also promised never to train any "pupils" in his art.

At 71, with eyesight failing and realizing that he could no longer maintain the high standard he set himself, de Sperati handed over all his equipment and most of his stamps, many of them finished products.

"I only kept a few for my personal satisfaction," he declared recently. De Sperati has lived in Aix-les-Bains for many years and built himself a comfortable villa called "Moonshine," overlooking the renowned spa.

The only law governing the stamp faker, a specialist declared, is that of supply and demand. According to the market he adds the precious "surcharge," or washes out things which detract from the stamp's value.

He discolors, rejuvenates, ages or repairs a stamp to make it worth 100 or 100,000 times its face value. But faking stamps is a very touchy job, calling for extensive technical knowledge.

During the German occupation, stamps became a handy way for camouflaging capital. By the same token, with the advent of scores of amateur stamp collectors, the fakers flourished. The completely faked stamp however soon disappeared from the market—it was too difficult and too costly to reproduce.

There are some stamps valued at anything from a few hundred dollars to more than $30,000 apiece. What is more, their values are steadily increasing. And as all philatelists know, stamps represent the most valuable portable property in the world, a factor of paramount importance in times of war and international upset.

A Reubens or a Rembrandt may be worth hundreds of thousands of dollars, but it is not the sort of thing you can transport across a hostile frontier tucked in a vest pocket.

When de Sperati was hauled before the Customs authorities in 1942 for illicit exportation of capital—he had sent a collection of rare stamps to Portugal—and fined $900 — he shook the philatelic world.

"I am an 'art philatelist,'" he said. "These stamps which you think are originals are merely copies and I sell them as such."

It is true that when he sold his stamps to collectors he always wrote "facsimile" on the back in indelible pencil. But these marks were easily rubbed out by the unscrupulous. Enormous sums have been paid for de Sperati copies by big collectors who thought they were buying the genuine stamps.

As in every realm of art, stamp fakers now rarely fool any but the gullible and inexperienced collectors. Experts today have all the scientific means at their disposal to detect the authenticity of a stamp. Microscopes, ultra-violet rays and the Wood lamp reveal the cleverest forging.

And nobody has de Sperati's secrets.

Already Has 50 Million— Goes To College to Learn How to Make More Money

MIAMI, Fla. — University of Miami business professors wondered if they could teach anything to Jose A. Ferre of Puerto Rico when he enrolled to seek a master's degree.

The 52-year-old Ferre and his three brothers already had built a 50 million dollar business empire in Puerto Rico and Florida.

But Ferre, who got his degree the other day, said he learned "many good things" about how to run a business.

"One of the professors asked me why I took the course," Ferre related. "I told him I wanted to learn how to make money."

Asked the best way to make a lot of money, Ferre replied: "Fast."

When Ferre went into business in 1924, his father owned a Puerto Rican foundry worth $30,000. He and his brothers went on from there.

They now own the only cement, glass and clay plants in Puerto Rico and operate paper mills, an asbestos products company, an iron mill, a steamship company, drydocks and a marine terminal in that country.

Last December, they bought a big concrete block manufacturing firm in Miami, and have been expanding their holdings here.

Ferre and his 19-year-old son, Maurice, were fellow students at the University of Miami. The son has just completed his second year in engineering.

City Betters

people who do not understand the procedures fully.

The operation begins with the county assessor's office run by Jerry Trotter and his deputy, J. M. Bailey. They took office in Sept. 1, 1935. Both have stated that although they found no irregularities from the previous administrations, they have tightened the existing system for insurance.

Bailey also said that he believes the assessment system to be thorough and fair, allowing for a normal number of errors which can be brought up before the Board of Equalization which meets in July.

The city has a working agreement with that office, as is the case in many Missouri communities, whereby the assessor makes a duplicate book on city assessments and turns it over to the city collector's office at city hall.

The city assessment survey is taken by two deputies from the county office who cover the entire city making notations on all changes that have a bearing on real estate and personal taxes.

Real estate is assessed on a comparative basis. That means that the value set on homes and lots is formulated by comparing it with the value set on other homes and lots of similar condition and state of improvement.

Television sets and automobiles. Power lines leading back to a transformer in the alley off of Thompson were also jerked loose.

The car drove away from the scene before police arrived. Police were called to the Askev Used Car lot on South Osage at 4:55 a.m. Saturday where a horn on a Studebaker had shorted and began blowing. Police removed wires from the horn on the request of the owner, W. C. Askev.

Charles Ziegelbein, 1404 East 12th, reported thieves stole three large crescent wrenches, three wrenches, chisels, punches, feeler gauges and three screw drivers from his truck while parked in front of 1003 East Sixth Friday night.

The tools were in a tool box on the truck. Mrs. C. W. Carroll, Green Ridge, found a white nylon purse and turned it over to the police. The purse was lost by Mrs. John Haney, 615 West Fourth, July 7.

A riot gun in Police Car No. 11 was accidentally discharged about 7:50 p.m. Friday while in the gun rack and blew a hole through the roof of the car. Officer Robert Pummill was stopped at 1004 East 11th to talk with Ed Baldwin and as he shut the car door the gun went off.

The safety on the gun had been freed in some way. No one was in the car at the time.

personal property, are given a flat assessment with cars assessed according to their year and make. Condition is not taken into consideration on these items.

Further cooperation between the city and county provides a double check on real estate assessments. Building and Electrical Inspector Louis W. Dickmann sends the assessors a complete record of all new construction through applications for building and electrical permits. Other improvements not requiring permits are considered maintenance of property to keep it up to its original value and are not considered in the assessment.

The assessment begins on Jan. 1 and the books are turned over to the city by June 1. City Clerk W. C. Ream begins breaking down the taxes and computing each Sedalian's obligation and payment is due as of Nov. 1 with two months allowed for payment.

Once the books are turned over to the city, the county assessor's obligation is finished. After the city clerk has broken down the tax figures, it is up to the city collector to receive payment and institute penalties for those who are delinquent.

The penalty for late payment of personal taxes is one per cent per month for ten months, until October, in addition to a blanket two per cent commission for the collector.

The next step in getting a city sticker is having the personal taxes paid up. The collector checks on this before issuing any sticker.

Unfortunately, there is no means of checking on exactly how many cars are owned and driven by Sedalians and who own them except to catch them being driven within the city limits. That is where the police department covers the final phase of putting the sticker program across.

The Negro Community Council of Sedalia met in a regular session on Thursday evening in the home of its president, Carl Abbott. The Council was quite appreciative of the progress made in the Hubbard Park in its equipment and program.

They felt that was a very effective way of informing the public on the issue.

VIENNA, Austria, July 9 (AP)—Visitors to Communist Hungary say this story is in wide circulation: A teacher asked his students whether any of them knew the nationality of Adam and Eve. And they still believed they were in Paradise."

Criminals Die In New York's Sing Sing

Convicted In Death Of Messenger Boy Whom They Killed

OSSINING, N. Y., July 9 (AP)—Three hardened criminals were executed tonight for the 1950 payroll slaying of a Readers Digest messenger. They had fought tenaciously to escape Sing Sing prison's electric chair and had won reprieves from the death sentence eight different times.

The last hope for the trio ended when acting Gov. George B. DeLuca denied their plea for executive clemency.

DeLuca's statement was issued at his New York home less than an hour before the men were led into the execution chamber.

DeLuca, acting in the absence of Gov. Averell Harriman, noted that Harriman had reviewed the whole case and had denied them clemency.

Harry Stein, 56, was the first killer to walk the 30-yard corridor to the execution room. He looked frightened, said nothing. He was pronounced dead at 11:07 p.m. EDT.

Calman Cooper, 47, cool and tough to the last, was the second to enter the chamber. He looked around, smiled and winked at the official witnesses. He was dead at 11:13 p.m.

Nathan Wissner, 49, was last. He, too, had nothing to say. His death came at 11:19 p.m.

All three men had long police records. All had either been accused or convicted of slayings before.

Stassen Defends Ike On Stevenson Charges Of Education Slack

CHICAGO (AP)—Harold E. Stassen defended President Eisenhower Friday night against what he called an implication by Adlai Stevenson that the President is "more interested in public roads and military reserves" than education and teachers.

Stassen spoke at the closing session of the NEA's 93rd annual meeting and referred to Stevenson's address to the NEA Wednesday.

The 1952 Democratic presidential candidate, in his speech, said Eisenhower had asked Congress to "pass not a law but a miracle" to finance seven billion dollars worth of new school construction.

Public Library Notes—

Children Find Reading Fun As They Read More Books

Horses and dogs still hold their own as champions of children's literature, but a number of other subjects, treated both factually and fictionally, are attracting today's boys and girls.

"Children's interests are more varied now than they ever were," according to Mrs. Camilla Walch Wilson, boys and girls librarian at the Sedalia Public Library. It may be because writers are turning out more good books on a variety of subjects, because children now have greater access to books through school libraries, or because television has broadened their interests. Whatever the reason, children are requesting more books on a variety of subjects than ever before.

Library records show that last year children borrowed more books than in any other year since 1937. Of course, there are more boys and girls now than there ever have been, but the fact that the increase this year is even greater indicates that a lot more boys and girls are discovering that "Reading Is Fun."

Science books are now among the most popular on the shelves. Such everyday things as honey bees and shells interest many young readers. "Real Books" about inventors and baseball are much in demand. "Space Cadet" and "Miss Pickrel Goes to Mars," are also widely read by the scientific boys and girls. Hobby books are another group that draw many readers.

All of these subjects come in for their share of interest, but Mrs. Wilson finds that books about horses and dogs and mysteries lead all others in the popularity parade. "There are few children who don't at some time like to read these," she said. However, the librarian has learned that just any old story about horses or dogs won't do for most children. Girls seem to prefer those in which a person is importantly portrayed, such as "A Horse of Her Own." But boys want a book about a horse and not about a boy or girl.

Carrots may be baked in a moderate oven along with a meat dish. Shred the carrots and dot with butter or margarine as you put them in a baking dish with a tight cover. You'll need about three cups of the shredded carrots for four servings and they'll require about half an hour of baking.

Canadians to Revise Anglican Prayerbook To Emphasize Love

TORONTO — The Canadian Anglican prayer book is being revised to place more emphasis on love of one's neighbor.

The Rt. Rev. F. H. Wilkinson, bishop of Toronto said the object of the revision, is to "tidy up, retranslate, shorten and drop much of the archaic language." He added:

"We tried to be as realistic as possible without using archaic language—some phrases now in the prayer book conjure up less than a Christian idea of God. They emphasize wrath too much and love too little."

Chief change in the revision, the climax of 12 years' study, will be the inclusion of what is sometimes called the 11th Commandment—"Love One Another." The general synod of the Church of England in Canada must approve the changes.

Henry Smart Ordained At Windsor Sun.

By Mrs. Leonard Phifer

On Sunday afternoon, July 3, at the First Baptist Church, Windsor, twenty-five pastors and ordained deacons were organized as a council for the purpose of examining Rev. Henry Smart in connection with his ordination to the full gospel ministry. Rev. R. C. Reichert, pastor of the Calhoun Baptist Church, was chosen as moderator; W. C. Boney as secretary; Frank Hughes to present the candidate to the church; Rev. Theodore Davis as interrogator; Rev. Robert Warren to lead in the ordaining prayer; and Rev. George T. Harryman to preach the ordination sermon, with the request that he include the charge both to the church and to the candidate.

Rev. Smart is to be commended for the way in which he answered the questions of the interrogator and the council. The twenty-five members of this council unanimously recommended him to the church for ordination. A motion that their recommendation be accepted was made by Ray Warren, seconded by R. H. Wells, and the church voted to proceed with the ordination.

While the council was retired for organization, Mrs. Walter Chipman and Mrs. Belford Jackson sang "He Is So Precious to Me." They were accompanied by Mrs. Chester Curtis. Mrs. Jackson led the congregation in the singing of several hymns. Just preceding the ordination sermon, Rev. Robert Warren, accompanied by Mrs. Jackson, sang, "The Love of God."

Rev. Smart responded to the call to the ministry during his high school days while a member of the First Baptist Church of Windsor. He is a graduate of Southwest Baptist College at Bolivar, and at present is a student at Baylor University, Waco, Tex. Rev. Smart served the Enon Baptist Church at Pittsboro for nine months during 1954 as pastor and served as a youth worker and music director for some time in a Baptist Church near Waco, Tex. On Monday, June 27, 1955, he was married to Miss Patricia Brown.

The members of the Windsor Baptist Church are proud to have had Rev. Smart as a member of the church and wish for him a long and fruitful ministry as a Baptist pastor.

Many Texans Think Crockett Was Outshadowed by Houston

MARYVILLE, Tenn. — Davy Crockett, king of the wild frontier, was beating a drum and was charged with disturbing the peace. Why, man, there are people here in Davy's old home state who'll tell you he was nothing but a wet-behind-the-ear compared to Sam Houston.

Davy died in the Alamo, but Big Sam, who spent his youth here, was an ever greater soldier and statesman and led Texas into the Union. It is hard today to imagine what Texas would be like if it hadn't been for Sam Houston—and oil wells, of course.

Young Sam might have been judged a juvenile delinquent by modern standards, but he outgrew it. And to Mrs. Boyd McKenzie, one of a group trying to preserve as a historic shrine the old one-room log cabin in which Houston once taught school, Davy isn't in the same class with Sam as a frontier hero.

"We'd never even heard much of Davy Crockett until six months ago," she said firmly.

Mrs. McKenzie is the descendant of a family which owned land next to the farm on which Sam Houston's widowed mother settled in Tennessee. She made the trek here from Virginia with her nine children.

Young Sam was an avid reader and averse to farm work. He used to run away and live with the Cherokee Indians who named him "The Raven."

"His first mention here was for public drunkenness at the age of 18," said Mrs. McKenzie. "He walked up and down the streets the most pleasure. And rather wistfully the old frontier hero said he remembered best the task of being a schoolteacher in the floodtime of his youth.

The simple old schoolhouse, weathered by the winds of 161 years, still stands. Wealthy Texans have tried to buy it and move it to the Lone Star state, but Tennessee isn't about to sell it. Or about to fix it up properly either, judging from its present look of disrepair.

In 1924 a pair of ancient lead knucks with Sam Houston's name scratched on them were found hidden above the doorway. Did young Sam enforce discipline on his pupils with lead knucks? Nobody knows.

"But it isn't likely he needed them," said Mrs. McKenzie. "At 18 Sam Houston was 6 feet 6 and weighed 200 pounds."

Big enough even to handle Davy Crockett.

Invites Strangers Who Call to Party

CHICAGO (AP)—A recent full page ad in a suburban newspaper read: "Why not call? Orchard 3-1117." Fourteen persons, most of them women, telephoned. They were invited to a cocktail and dinner party Friday night at the Gold Coast Hotel and told they might bring a guest.

The ad was inserted by Richard Fuhr, 26, president of a lumber company, in suburban Morton Grove. Fuhr, a bachelor said he did it as a "stunt" to see who would call. He picked up the sizeable check for the party of 22.

Boy Is Told To Disband Backyard Zoo

BALDWIN, N. Y. (AP)—Andy Burr, 12, has a love for animals strong and true, but the power of town officials, who frown on his backyard zoo, is stronger.

Andy and neighborhood pals had worked hard to house and care for a collection of animals, including four rabbits, a deodorized skunk, two raccoons, a fox, a pig, three squirrels, a prairie dog and a coyote.

When the Hempstead Town Zoning Board ordered the zoo disbanded, Andy's heart was broken. With tears in his eyes the boy stood among his pets yesterday and said:

"They're not hurting anybody. They're just here in the back yard and they don't smell and they don't make noise at night and they're not hurting the zoning board any."

Still the zoning board says the animal collection violates a city ordinance.

A home has already been found for the four rabbits. Slated to go next were two raccoons named Tree Top and Tree Stump.

But Andy expects to have trouble getting ride of some of his other four-legged friends. For instance, he says, what can you do with a coyote, even a nice friendly one like "Tex."

Text and several other animals were bought from a New York dealer. Andy's father, a builder, considers animals a good hobby for a boy and helped his budding zookeeper build up the collection. Andrew Burr Sr. says Nassau County is getting too crowded when a boy can't keep pets in his back yard and the family may move some place where life is less restricted.

On July 4 the youngsters opened their zoo to the public. They charged 20 cents admission and collected $18 for the local polo fund. The next day the zoning board came around and gave Andy one week to break up the zoo.

Until they go, it will be a heavy-hearted boy who plays with good friends like Red, the fox, and Josephine, the pig that just loves to have her chin scratched.

4-H Round-Up

By Jim Perry
Assistant County Agent

Five of the seven 4-H Chamber of Commerce Picnic Committees met the last week. They are beginning to shape up the plans for the fine annual event. This picnic is an excellent way for rural and urban people to become better acquainted. It is really very satisfying to see 1600 to 1800 from our town and farms get together in such a wholesome manner.

In my opinion, the next most satisfying thing that is apparent is the fine way that our 4-H people plan and work together to make this the smooth-running event that it is. This is developing leadership not only among the leaders but also among the members and parents as well. This event has shown, that through the planning of local committees and the using of local people, a big job can be done. The planning and coordinating of our efforts are two of the big factors in leadership development. In other words, we are learning to do by doing.

Then I suppose that if we are to be honest about this event, we must say that the third most satisfying thing to come from this picnic would be the small mountains of fried chicken and all of the trimmings. Or, would you say that this is the most satisfying?

R.Y.O. Camp

An excellent R.Y.O. Camp program has been prepared for the R.Y.O. members of Missouri. This annual state-wide camp provides both recreational and educational features. The camp will be held at Clover Point Camp near Kaiser, Missouri, on Lake of the Ozarks, on July 22-24. I am sure that I will be going and perhaps Ralph will go also. So, there will be transportation for those who need it. I imagine that several will want to take cars also. Having been to R.Y.O. Camps before, I can certainly recommend them.

Dr. Fred McKinney, Professor of Psychology at the University of Missouri, will be on the program.

He appears on his weekly T. V. show, "Not In Our Stars". Dr. McKinney is not only well-known in his field but also does an amusing job of making his presentations. This will probably be one of the highlights of the camp.

The camp fee of $5.50 which includes everything except the excursion boat ride which is 75 cents. The camp will begin with registration on Friday about 4 p.m. A Western Round Up Party has been planned for Friday night.

We should make an effort to attend this camp because unless the crowds are larger, there has been some questions raised as to whether it should be continued or not. Therefore, this one may be the last camp that we will have the opportunity to attend.

Dates Ahead
Now that I am back from summer school, it will probably be well for us to take stock of the dates ahead.

Owners Work For Bargains But Careless

The average car buyer will spend weeks in comparing new models to decide which one suits his fancy and his pocket book. Then, he will go through a period of bickering and maneuvering to secure what he believes is the best buy.

He wants to secure every ounce of value that he can for his hard earned money; but once he buys it, he will break every rule of common sense and courtesy while driving. He not only will take chances of demolishing his proud possession, but he will stake his life on the outcome of his driving blunders without batting an eye.

Colonel Waggoner, Superintendent of the Missouri Highway Patrol said that drivers seldom think of the things they can do to make highways safer, they drive from habit without much thought.

The Colonel called attention to the fact that the main cause of traffic accidents is human failure. He said that if drivers would follow a few simple rules, traffic accidents would be greatly reduced.

One of the causes of driver failure is lack of attention. Drivers should not only keep an eye on the road, but should be attentive to cars approaching from both the front and the rear. Safe driving cannot be accomplished when the driver is visiting with passengers in his car, or sight-seeing. Safe driving requires 100 per cent attention.

Other causes of driver failure are drinking, fatigue and excessive speed. Drinking and fatigue both create a form of inattention that greatly increases the chances of traffic accidents. Excessive speed not only creates conditions which causes the driver to lose control of his car, but it always increases the severity of traffic accidents.

When drivers eliminate the factors that lead to their own failure and use common sense in adjusting their driving to road, weather and traffic conditions, traffic tragedies will be greatly reduced.

Like canned pimientos? Fill them with seafood or chicken salad and serve on greens. They're particularly nice this way for a company buffet.

Cadillac

Second Car He Ever Owned!

Time was when a man wouldn't have considered a Cadillac until he had owned four—or five—or even six different motor cars.

But nowadays more and more motorists—like the happy man you see in the picture above—are stepping right up from their first car to a Cadillac.

There are, we think, two basic reasons for this wonderful change.

To begin with, the temptation to make the move to Cadillac has never been greater than it is today.

The car's arresting grace and beauty . . . its captivating luxury and graciousness . . . and its heart-winning performance have all been brought to new peaks of perfection for 1955.

And secondly, the path to Cadillac has never before been so clearly marked or so easily traveled.

Take original cost, for instance. The purchase price of the lowest-priced Cadillac is actually little more than many models in the medium-price field.

And then consider Cadillac's economy. Few automobiles of any size or make will travel farther on a gallon of gasoline . . . and the car is all but free from any save the most routine costs of maintenance.

And, finally, there is the car's resale value. Year after year, Cadillac cars return their owners a higher percentage on their original investments than any other automobiles in the land.

So if you want a Cadillac—don't feel that you have to advance gradually to the car of cars.

If you are ready to make the move, the automobile you now own is the perfect steppingstone.

Why not stop in soon and see for yourself? You'll find that we have some very pleasant news for you about cost and delivery.

Count on us to help, like a good neighbor in time of need . . .

A Dignified Campaign . . .

Lively interest is being shown in the Urban Area plan of highway improvement for Sedalia since city council authorized a $250,000 bond issue as this community's share in the 10 year, $2,-500,000 program.

The bond election is set for Tuesday, August 2.

Preliminary publicity started last January when the State Highway department produced a brochure on the Sedalia Urban Area report. This detailed all the essentials in a project to relieve traffic congestion in Sedalia on Highways 50 and 65 by developing present facilities in much the same manner as has been done in other cities.

In support of this modernization program civic clubs and individuals are getting behind the steering committee organized to attend to details of obtaining full public understanding of what this improvement means to a growing community.

Like any project of this magnitude there may be some minor objectionable features affecting a small segment of the population but nothing so out of proportion in this respect that the entire program should be scuttled. In some instances there may be modifications of the original draft of the engineers, but as a whole the major features should stand.

Early this year detailed explanations of the widening of Broadway and changes on Main and Ohio, extensions of Limit, etc. were made, but before the August 2 bond election these will be repeated. The public is encouraged to read these descriptions and if there is any further interpretation needed individuals are requested to communicate with the Urban Area committee through the Chamber of Commerce.

Decidedly the Urban Area Plan should have the dignified attention of all the citizens in balance with the dignified attention it has already received from the State Highway department and city administration. This is not something to invite oppositionists to resort to gumshoe, back-alley tactics of circulating false information.

If there's to be any opposition to the Urban Area Program let's have it out in the open for the entire public to hear or read. That's the intelligent approach to any civic improvement proposal. There may be much misinformation passed around by word or by hand bills, but if it is legitimate lack of understanding then an effort should be made by every individual to become better informed—and that can be had for the asking.

The highway department, the city administration, leaders of both political parties, labor leaders, business men, civic leaders are all cooperating in an effort to develop the interest necessary to get out the vote on August 2.

To those not yet persuaded the Urban Area Plan is acceptable, an appeal is made to have the features they do not understand explained more thoroughly by those familiar with the subject, rather than to form opinions on misinformation obtained from unreliable sources.

Drew Pearson Says—

Backstage Battle Over Medical Research

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—While the battle over Salk polio vaccine has been waged in the headlines, another battle involving many diseases besides polio—cancer, heart disease, epilepsy, muscular dystrophy—is being waged privately between a handful of congressmen. Upon its outcome will depend in part the health of the nation in the next few years.

The public doesn't realize that some of the most vital issues are threshed out in the backstage conferences between the two conference committees of the House and Senate after a bill has passed. In this case the row is over how much money shall go to medical research, and one argument is between two Democrats—Sen. Lister Hill of Alabama, who wants more money spent on health research, and Congressman John Fogarty of Rhode Island, who wants to stick with Mrs. Hobby's restricted budget.

In the past, Fogarty has been called by Congressman Rooney of New York "the outstanding congressional leader in the field of public health." In the past, Fogarty has battled the meat-axing of Congressman John Taber of New York when it came to chopping the health budget.

But not this year. This year, for some strange reason, Fogarty seems to be siding with his old, penny-pinching critic, Mr. Taber.

At stake in the argument is about $24,000,000 for the expanded program that Senator Hill has put through the Senate to train more doctors and to dig further for the cures to the nation's number one killer diseases. The program has been approved by the country's top medical specialists and has been passed by the Senate, but not by the House of Representatives. That's thanks to Fogarty of Rhode Island.

New Medical Dawn

Sen. Lister Hill happens to be named for Lord Joseph Lister of London, discoverer of antiseptic surgery. Then senator's father studied under Lord Lister and later performed the first successful operation on the human heart. So his son, the senator from Alabama, has a keen interest in medicine and is convinced that medical science is on the verge of great new discoveries.

Cures for cancer, leukemia and heart disease, he believes, are just around the corner. He points out that in the last 14 years, life expectancy has been extended 8.5 years, chiefly through research into the causes and cures of such major killers as rheumatic fever, appendicitis, influenza, syphilis and TB.

Yet because of the following facts, Senator Hill considers it doubtful that the rate of progress can be maintained without more federal help:

- A shortage of 22,000 to 45,000 doctors.
- A great need for money to finance research.
- Lack of $150,000,000 to build laboratories in which the research can be carried out.
- Urgent need for 600,000 to 800,000 more hospital beds.

To partially remedy this situation, the advisory council of doctors which helps steer the Public Health Service recommended an appropriation of $139,473,000 this year. Mrs. Hobby however, wanted only $73,958,000. The Senate then went over the lady's head and gave her an additional $24,000,000 whether she wanted it or not.

Animals vs. Humans

Her colleague, the Secretary of Agriculture, Mr. Benson, gets $51,079,563 for agricultural research into the cause of Bang's disease in cows, hog cholera, hoof and mouth disease and various other farm diseases and problems. Nevertheless Mrs. Hobby stuck by her meagre figure of $73,958,000 for research into human diseases, not the $97,000,000 voted her by the Senate.

And she's been depending on a Democrat, Congressman Fogarty of Rhode Island, to scale the Senate figure down. Various Democrat leaders have gone to Democratic Congressman Fogarty to urge more funds for medical research. Even Speaker Sam Rayburn has urged him to agree to the Senate bill with its higher appropriation. But still the congressman from Rhode Island says no.

Guest Editorial—

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR: Essay on "Ornery." What we need in this century, Aldai Stevenson told a Smith College graduating class, are more "idiosyncratic" people. "That rugged frontier word 'ornery' occurs to me."

Thought-provoking as this statement is (and it is a quite pungent way of phrasing the old saw that cranks keep the world turning), what interests us is the one definition more added to that already colorful and useful word "ornery."

If you don't think it's in the dictionary, take a look. And it's sometimes spelled "ornary" and undoubtedly popped into the spoken language as a colloquial contraction of "ordinary."

Dictionaries define it briefly as connoting "mean, contemptible" and one work on language quotes its use in the United States before 1800.

Since then it has accumulated a wealth of meanings, a symphony of overtones—and for that matter, a variety of pronunciations. (In much of the South it is spoken "ornry.") Words like this can be useful. They fill gaps in the vocabulary, half-tones to the description scale. One who is ornery can be cantankerous but not cruel, rambunctious but not rude, a scallawag without being a scoundrel, unsocial without being antisocial, a dissenter but not a deserter, an iconoclast but not an anarchist. You get the idea?

Words like this enrich the language. But they do have a scarcity value. Not every lip-lazy contraction can survive the abrasive test of use as "ornery" has done.

Harper's Ferry Shrine

School children who are taken on tours with their parents or teachers will soon be able to visit another national shrine, Harper's Ferry, West Virginia. It was in the sleepy little town of Harper's Ferry, where the waters of the Potomac and the Shenandoah rivers meet, John Brown made his unsuccessful raid in 1859 to stir the slaves in revolt. There, too, took place the surrender of 12,000 Federals to General Stonewall Jackson. As soon as title to some newly acquired land can be cleared, the national park service will then take over. In the reservation is the rock where Thomas Jefferson sat enjoying the scenic view of three states and said, "This scene is worth a voyage across the Atlantic."

It is doubtful many will cross the Atlantic just to view Harper's Ferry when it becomes a national shrine, but it is certain many Americans who have already been there, will go again and be inspired once more by the beauty and the historic past of that famous spot.

Thought for Today

So that my soul chooseth strangling, and death rather than my life.—Job 7:15.

Not all the subtleties of metaphysics can make me doubt a moment of the immortality of the soul, and of a beneficent Providence. I feel it, I believe it, I desire it, I hope it, and will defend it to my last breath.—Rousseau.

The Postman

The postman going day by day
To all the homes along his way
Becomes a friend to all he meets
Along his route of many streets:
He learns each family rather well,
The letters in his bag will tell
A story of the family there,
And often with him they will share
So much of life he'll understand
What means this letter in his hand;
He knows the letters every day
When someone's sweetheart is away,
He watches romances progress,
He sometimes sees mail growing less,
He sees the light in Mother's eyes,
When there's no mail it somehow dies,
And pension checks, perhaps quite meager,
Yet, those awaiting are so eager,
The letter that's so looked for, too,
He quickly sees as he goes through
The mail—for very well he knows
How they have waited where it goes;
Through unread letters he can see
The lives of every family,
And every friendly dog will greet
The postman up and down the street;
A tiny girl will watch and wait,
Like once did I at our iron gate,
To see the postman who will smile
And talk with her a little while—
I see him stop and pet her, too,
Just like my postman used to do,
For children always, I suppose,
Have loved the men in postman clothes,
The postman, as he goes about,
Weaving his way now in and out
Is so much just a part of us,
If he is late we sometimes fuss,
Perhaps he leaves no mail at all
Still we await his daily call,
Sometimes he finds someone has made
For him a drink of lemonade
In summer, when the days are hot,
Whether he leaves them mail or not,
They feel he surely must be dry
And watch for him 'till he comes by,
Out in the weather of all kinds,
Yet, there must be a joy he finds
For the postman all along his way
Means much in everybody's day.

Costs $25 to Speed On Illinois River

JERSEYVILLE, Ill. (P)—It cost Arthur M. Neer of East St. Louis, Ill., $25 to speed in his motorboat on the Illinois River last Wednesday.

Justice of the Peace Arthur Thatcher assessed the fine Friday under an Illinois law that requires motor vehicles on water to observe reasonable and proper speeds.

State Patrolman Wayne Rowling arrested Neer on the complaint of a fisherman who said Neer's boat damaged some of his fishing tackle because it passed him recklessly. Neer pleaded guilty.

Offers a Salute to Woman Press Agent -- Anne Wheaton

By Esther Van Wagoner Tuft
Democrat-Capital
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—This is a salute to a woman press agent named Anne Wheaton.

Anne is an old and valued friend of mine, but that isn't why I think this "press woman" on the Republican National Committee should be given special praise right now. In the mail this morning she sent me a fat folder filled with accurate information about what women are accomplishing in the world of politics. And bless me, it's bipartisan. Also it's the best reference compilation of women-in-politics I've seen.

By this time everyone knows there are 17 women in the present Congress, 9 Democrats and 8 Republicans. Of these, only one is a Senator, Margaret Chase Smith of Maine. But just how many women the President has appointed isn't well known or how many women are serving in state legislatures, on important judicial posts, or in state appointive positions. It took a bit of patient research in all the 48 states to compile this.

Here are a few facts to prove women are getting more and more active in politics at all levels:

1. Some 85 women have received presidential appointments (admittedly few are important); one cabinet member, two ambassadors.
2. Some 360,000 work for Uncle Sam; about 1/4 total population included are 14,000 women postmasters.
3. Women in diplomatic officer service have tripled to reach 60. An all time high of 2,000 are in the clerical category.

4. Close to 6,000 serve in top state jobs.

Anne contends the greater proportion of women appointees are Republicans serving in the 21 states now headed by Republican Governors, but New Jersey with a Democrat Governor (Robert B. Meyner) tops all the states with its list of 36 women in key posts. (The governor is a bachelor which may or may not explain this!)

Today 150 women are in important judicial posts including four women judges in Federal Courts and Courts of the United States.

There are no women governors, but Mrs. Consuelo Northrop Bailey is the Lt. Governor of Vermont. Six women were elected Secretary of State. Four are state auditors and four are regents of the state universities of Illinois (2), Michigan and Colorado.

And 50 women are mayors! Missouri has a woman in the House, Mrs. Leonor K. Sullivan representing the third district.

But the President has not appointed any woman to a post.

Governor Phil M. Donnelly has named four women to state positions: Mrs. Bertha Nan Carroll Branch, State Penitentiary; Mrs. Charles A. Shaw, President State Board of Education; Mrs. True Davis, Member State Board of Education; Helen E. Kinney, Director Department Public Health Nursing.

Some Thyroid Difficulties Can Be Treated With Drugs

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.

Every year thousands of persons develop trouble with their thyroid glands which requires medical attention. Many of them write this column since they appear to be greatly confused about what is going on.

The thyroid is a gland of internal secretion which lies in the front of the neck, sometimes extending down the upper portion of the breastbone. This gland does not have a duct or passageway to empty its secretion and therefore its hormone is absorbed directly into the bloodstream.

When behaving normally, the thyroid produces just the right amount of secretion for the needs of the body. Among other functions, it helps to regulate the action of other internal glands and also to keep the heartbeat regular.

If the thyroid gland starts misbehaving it may produce either too much secretion or a secretion which is abnormal. The result is the development of a condition which is known as toxic goiter of which there are several varieties. Other names for toxic goiter are Graves' disease, von Basedow's disease and hyperthyroidism.

Usually when it becomes toxic the thyroid also enlarges. The other symptoms vary but the most common besides enlargement are a rapid heart rate, bulging eyes, trembling of the hands, nervousness and loss of weight.

Sometimes these symptoms alone are enough to make a diagnosis. Almost always, however, doctors wish to have a metabolism test taken which measures more accurately the degree to which the thyroid is overactive. This is done early in the morning before eating. It does not cause any pain.

Toxic goiter should be diagnosed as soon as possible before it has produced damage which may be hard or slow to overcome. The most common form of treatment has been surgery.

This involves an operation in which part of the disease thyroid tissue is removed, leaving only enough to supply the normal needs of the body.

Now some other methods besides surgery are used for toxic goiter. Drugs of the thiouracil family have been used with success in some cases. Radioactive iodine is also a useful medical treatment.

Those who have thyroid trouble should know, however, that not all toxic goiters can be successfully treated medically. Consequently surgery will probably continue to be used for some, at least, for a long time to come.

Bears Are Big Summer Peril For Tourists

By George L. Walker
AP Newsfeatures

LANSING — There's something appealing about a bear — big, awkward and gentle — that makes people forget he must be treated as a wild animal and not as a kitten on a sofa.

Every year, conservation officers have to remind tourists and campers that a bear is a powerfully built mechanism with saber-like claws that can tear a man apart. Also they often bite the hand that feeds them.

Wild black bears are practically harmless. When they see, hear or smell you, they take to the woods, much more afraid of you than you are of a lion. But the bears you see around parks and near towns in Michigan and other states are not very often wild. They usually are tramps.

Tramp bears find it easier to feed at a garbage dump than to forage for berries.

Farley F. Tubbs, a Michigan conservation official, says the tramps lose their fear of people — and that's where the trouble begins. Cubs feeding at the garbage dump with their mothers make fine entertainment, Tubbs says, but when they become yearlings, they're on their own and have to compete with adults. They are driven out of the dumps and become freelancers in camps and picnic grounds.

Clever as they are in some ways, these yearlings can be stupid about knowing where a ham sandwich leaves off and a human hand begins. And the bears are becoming bolder, Tubbs says. People in some parts of Michigan have been finding bears on their front porches.

So the warning for tourists who see tramp bears out in the open is getting more urgent, he suggests. They're big and friendly — and dangerous.

Local Kiwanians Attend Meeting In Cleveland

Jackson A. Raney, Indianapolis school executive, has been named President of Kiwanis International. He was elected to the number-one Kiwanis post Wednesday, June 29th, by delegates attending the 40th annual Convention of Kiwanis International at Cleveland, Ohio.

President Jack Crawford and Past President L. A. Pharris were delegates from the Sedalia Club. As head of Kiwanis International, Raney will be official spokesman for almost a quarter million Kiwanians in 4062 clubs located throughout the United States and Canada, and in Alaska and the Hawaiian Islands. He succeeds Don E. Engdahl, Spokane, Wash., who has held the post since August of 1954.

Raney has devoted most of his professional life to the education of the physically handicapped. He has been superintendent of the Indiana State School for the Deaf at Indianapolis for 20 years. He is a graduate of Franklin College and a member of its council. Recently, he received the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws from that institution.

Kiwanis' President-elect has been an active Kiwanian for 19 years. Immediately prior to his selection for the number-one Kiwanis post, he was vice-president of the organization. He also chairmanned the International Convention Program Committee for this year, and for 1954. He has served as president of his own Indianapolis Kiwanis Club, lieutenant governor and governor of the Indiana Kiwanis District and chairman of the International Committee on Boys and Girls Work. His work in the field of boys and girls work has been instrumental in bringing increased public attention to the various Kiwanis programs devoted to the welfare of the youth of the United States and Canada.

They Work for the Government— Border Patrol Works Hard Keeping Undesirables Out

By KENNETH O. GILMORE
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — As midnight approached, two men trudged along a narrow path beside the Rio Grand River near El Paso, Tex. The full moon threw a dazzling reflection on the murky water and silhouetted their cautious progress.

Suddenly a light flickered 150 yards away on the opposite shore. With it came the familiar whine of a bullet. Then the report of a rifle shot in the still night.

As Edgar Niebuhr dove to the ground and felt the gritty sand smack against his cheek, he wondered, "What am I doing in this outfit?"

It was his first assignment as a member of the U.S. Border Patrol, and a sniper had nearly picked him off. Since that July evening in 1940 Niebuhr has had other close calls. In 1950 a bullet ripped through his hip missing the bone and probably his life by a fraction of an inch.

Yet he believes that working for "this outfit" is a fine way to earn a living. "It's rugged, outdoor work with plenty of excitement," explains Niebuhr, who is now senior patrol inspector at McAllen, Tex. "You're never in a rut or get bored sitting at a desk shuffling papers. And you're doing an important job for the government."

This is the kind of man the Immigration and Naturalization Service is looking for today to fill an unlimited number of openings in the Border Patrol.

"We need young, vigorous men who like the outdoors and can handle themselves in any situation," says the commissioner of the service, Joseph M. Swing.

Since he was appointed to the top post in May, 1954, Swing has taken some radical steps. At that time Mexican laborers were illegally swarming across the wide Southwest border of the U.S. at the rate of more than 3,000 a day, or approximately two every minute. The "wetbacks" came in quest of comparatively high wages paid to agricultural workers in Texas and California.

To get at the heart of this critical problem, Swing ordered a highly mobile 750-man task force organized. During June and July, which is the peak of the employment demand in Texas and California, this legion carried out an extensive drive through the two states.

The mop-up netted more than 450,000 "wetbacks" who were taken far into the interior of their own country by the Mexican government. Jeeps, trucks, planes and radio equipment were used in this semi-military operation.

Today the situation is under control, according to officials at Washington headquarters of the Border Patrol. Only 300 "wetbacks" a day are attempting to cross the border. But it is emphasized that able men are badly needed to keep up the ranks of the Patrol, which numbers roughly 1,400 officers.

It's a rough, two-fisted job to guard this 1,600-mile border from Brownsville, Tex., to San Diego, Calif. The terrain is mostly a drab, sandy wasteland and during the summer months the sun is scorching. A desperate "wetback" can be troublesome and dangerous. In addition, smugglers, crooks, other foreigners and subversives attempt to slip across this vulnerable line.

A Border Patrol inspector must be equipped to take on various assignments. Perhaps one of the hardest is "laying-up." This means hiding out along a path from a river or irrigation canal and waiting for a "wetback" to appear.

"It's no fun on a cold night," says Niebuhr. "You can't talk, smoke or hardly breathe. But men are doing it every night."

"Sign-cutting" is another important task. By picking up such tell-tale signs as footprints in the sand, cigarette butts, or the remains of a hastily eaten meal, officers along the border track down illegal entrants. Then the trail has to be followed until the quarry is found.

Other of the more essential duties include checking farms, ranches and industries for "wetbacks" and maintaining road-blocks at all border points.

Age limits for appointees are from 21 to 31 for non-veterans and 21 to 35 for veterans.

Applicants for the Border Patrol must be at least five feet eight inches tall, weigh not less than 140 pounds, and be in top physical condition. For six to eight weeks prospective officers attend the Border Patrol Training School at El Paso.

There they are crammed with courses ranging from court procedure to jujitsu and first aid. The men must also have a good working knowledge of Spanish, know the elementary rules of evidence and be able to handle firearms and do fingerprinting.

During the first year probationary period inspectors are paid $3,795. Then they receive $4,205 annually with opportunity to compete for positions to a top salary of $11,800.

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Nineteen of Richmond's Democrats for Eisenhower were invited to the White House. The Richmond News Leader gave this report of a part of the conversation with the President.

Coleman Wortham Jr., invited the President to Virginia to see "the best duck hunting marsh in the United States."

"Do I have to go through Richmond?" the President asked. On one visit, he recalled, he was hustled past some dignitaries he was supposed to greet. Then of course the speaker's platform collapsed with him on his 1952 campaign stop.

"Mr. President, excuse me," one member of the party cut in, "but the Republicans built the platform. They wouldn't let us near it, Democratic platforms don't collapse."

Three Teams Scheduled— Chiefs Play Columbia Sunday In Second Half Of B-J Play

The second half of season play in the Central Missouri Ban Johnson League will get underway tonight as the teams all move north for three games of league play.

Boonville will tackle the Brookfield Bombers at Brookfield; Marshall will face the Mexico Ramblers on their home field and the local Chiefs will travel to Columbia for their first game of last half play.

The Columbia club may be in for a surprise tonight when they face the Chiefs, for they will be facing the same men as in two previous games, but a different team altogether.

In the two previous league games with Columbia the local club has taken severe beatings with a large margin of runs in favor of the "University City" team.

Phillips 66 And Mullins Take Games

In the first game of Babe Ruth play at Liberty Park Friday night the Browns took an 11-5 decision over the Phillips 66ers.

The 66ers failed to score in the first two innings as the Browns racked up one run in the first and then passed the second scoreless themselves. Both teams, however, tallied three in the third to leave the Browns with a one run edge.

After failing to score in the fourth the 66ers let the Browns push five runs across the plate for a large margin they were never able to equal even after a two run rally in the fifth.

The Browns also tallied two in the fifth to take a 11-5 lead, which they kept for the final score after both teams failed to score in the sixth and seventh.

In the second tilt of the night the Mullins Men's Wear club battled the Taystee Bread club with 16 runs to take a 16-5 victory.

The Mullins scored one in the first and second, but the Taystee Bread boys tied the game up in the last of the second with two runs.

Mullins bounced back in the last of the second with two runs.

Mullins bounced back with two more in the third to assume the lead again as they held the Taystee club scoreless in their half.

The fourth inning brought a three run rally for the Taystee club as they held Mullins down in the first of the frame and took a 5-4 lead.

The lead see-sawed back to Mullins in the fifth, however, as they put five men across the plate.

The Taystee club was through scoring and with a four run lead built up the Mullins Men went on in the seventh to increase the margin by seven for their big lead win.

Phillips 66 003 020 0-5
Browns 103 320 x-11

Mullins 112 050 7-16
Taystee Bread 020 300 0-5

In the two games Thursday night the Phillips 66ers took an opener against the Taystee Bread boys 6-7.

Both teams scored one in the first inning and failed to tally in the second.

The break in the game came in the third as the Taystee boys scored two and the Gasmen pit four across the plate.

Once again neither team scored in the fourth, but as they held the 66ers scoreless in the next two innings the Taystee boys scored one each frame to tie up the game.

The Bakers were retired scoreless in the seventh as the Phillips club tallied the winning run in the last of the frame.

The nightcap of the evening brought a 6-2 victory for the Western Auto boys over the Mullins Men's Wear team.

Neither team could pull through a run in the first frame, but Western Auto took one in the first half of the second to start an early lead.

Both teams copped two runs in the third and then failed to tally in the fourth.

The Mullins men were through, but Western Auto took one more in the fifth and two in the seventh.

Taystee 102 011 0-5
Phillips 66 104 010 1-6

Western Auto 012 020 2-6
Mullins 002 000 0-2

Local Golfers Play Nine Holes Of Golf In Nighttime Hours

Four local golfers played nine holes of golf after dark Thursday night at the Sedalia Country Club with the aid of only car lights and flashlights.

Bernard Stanfield had the best score of the foursome with a three over par 39 for the nine holes. Frank Reynolds finished with 43 with Van Van Dyne and Damon Hieronymus carding scores of 45.

Stanfield and Reynolds defeated Van Dyne and Hieronymus in the night time match by 2-1.

The group teed off at 9 p. m. and finished the round at 11:30 p. m.

Earl Spieler and his son, Donnie, assisted in directing the golfers to each hole with flashlights.

Only six golf balls were lost during the night match.

Those two games, however, were played before the Chiefs started their uphill climb in the last five games of the first half of league play. Fans will recall that in those last five games the Chiefs found themselves and turned, in one game, from a listless, uninspired club to a team which mowed down four clubs in a row and lost to one by one run, in a game that was played under protest. That team was also the second place club in the league, and the Chiefs had beat them in Sedalia the same week.

This "uphill climb" as the Chiefs rally became known put the local club in the place of being the team to consider in the second half, and if the Chiefs continue that "uphill" playing, that is exactly what the Columbia aggregation will be doing tonight.

With a new spirit and confidence in their playing the local club is going to be hard to beat and all the Ban Johnson fans are urged to attend the Columbia game and cheer the Sedalia boys on to a first game victory as they start the second half of season play with a clear record.

Famous Racer Will Address Lions July 13

Johnnie Parsons, winner of the 1950 Indianapolis "500", and AAA racing director of the new million dollar Lakeside stadium in Kansas City, Kansas, will be the noon luncheon speaker at the July 13 meeting of the Sedalia Lions Club, at the Bothwell Hotel.

The personable 36-year old driver is one of the best speakers among the racing fraternity, and is still competing in midget and big car races at points across the country.

This next Friday night, July 15, he will be entered in the big car races at Lakeside Stadium, together with such famous personalities as Bob Sweikert, winner of this year's "500", Al Herman, rookie driver of the year, Jerry Hoyt, fastest qualifier for the 500 mile event, and a host of other top drivers from across the nation.

Parsons hails from Van Nuys, California, but is now making his home in Kansas City until racing is over for the year. He has been racing for a living for the past eight years, starting out with the late Bill Vukovich in California during the late 1940's. Since that time he has climbed quickly to the top of the racing world and is probably the best known of any of the "500" winners in the past fifteen years. This year he was running second when he was forced out of the race with magneto trouble after 345 miles had been completed.

Married and the father of one child, Johnnie plans on trying the big one perhaps twice more and then retiring from the sport—at least retiring from the Indianapolis portion. He isn't sure whether he will continue to race midgets and big cars.

Proof of Parsons' fluent voice is his recent television commercial for the Du Pont company filmed last month in Hollywood. He will be featured on their anti-freeze commercial to be telecast nationally next year during the Frank Leahy football forecast show each week.

Experienced driver and fluent speaker, Parsons is sure to entertain at the Lions club this Wednesday, July 13.

Semipro Games Start

WICHITA, Kan., July 9 (AP)—Ten more state championship semipro baseball tournaments to qualify champions for the annual national tournament in Wichita will start next week.

The National Baseball Congress said today the starting dates and sites of the state events include July 15, Cape Girardeau, Mo.

The game which will get underway at 8 p. m. will have Ralph "Skip" Schultz on the mound for the local group. Schultz is a favorite with Columbia crowds as he is known from his attendance at Missouri University.

The Columbia fans are sure to be at the park to watch him take a defeat at the hands of their favorite team, but a large delegation from Sedalia is expected to be on hand at the game to cheer he and the Chiefs on to victory.

Tuesday night the Chiefs will take on a semi-pro club from Marshall. At 8 p. m. at Liberty Park they will face the Saline County Red Birds, who have played several games with the Marshall Ban Johnson club.

Either Kubli or Delph will start for the Chiefs.

The semi-pro boys will give the Chiefs a hard game and plenty of good baseball is expected. The game will also give the Chiefs a good workout before they travel to Jefferson City on Tuesday, July 19, for a league game with the Jefferson City Bears, who won the first half Ban Johnson pennant.

Sports Scraps

(By D. Kelly Scruton)

DO you remember? Remember the opening of night baseball in Sedalia was a big affair and opened on Tuesday night, July 8, 1930—just 25 years ago. It was a big event in as much as Sedalia was the first city west of the Mississippi to install night baseball and the honored teams were the Sedalia Athletics and the American Legion ball club of Boonville.

The first story on night baseball being played opened up thusly: "Wow! Was it a ball game! Tuesday night no less than 3,000 voices and scores of automobile horns were really given a workout in an effort to pull the Sedalia Athletics from under a 2 to 4 score held by the Boonville Legionnaires."

It brings back fond memories. Elmer Dillard, now manager of the Taystee Baking Co., was the pitcher on the mound opposing young Ed Barhart. Sedalia got five hits, Boonville four. Boonville had a four-run rally in the sixth off of three hits and it was Ed's two base hit which broke a tie and scored two runs.

The Athletics two scores were in the fourth when the late Olie McMullin singled. Dillard drove a hot single through second and McMullin scored from second after being advanced on a sacrifice by Clyde McCarty—(Remember Clyde from Warsaw). Dillard to second on the throw to home. Potts Evans, owner of the Green Pastures, hit a sharp single to left field and Dillard scored. Evans to second on the throw in. Those were the two runs.

It wasn't hard in those days in getting teams to come to Sedalia and play. Especially because of the huge crowds which packed the ball park. But in those days cars were permitted to park along first and third base line.

Later in WPA days the baseball grandstand was torn down and a new one built which began the down fall of crowds. It seems nobody liked the new stand as well as the old, especially after being able to park their cars on the field.

Sedalia has since grown much larger, but for some reason the growth has meant little if anything to semi-pro baseball here. Plans are now underway by some of the young ball players to try to organize a semi-pro team for 1956 and hope to start this working plan this fall in time to be able to present to the city a real ball club with some financial support behind it.

Not being a tennis player (the weight having something to do with it) and not being too familiar with tennis courts and the rules of the game, I can only take the word of the so-called local experts on the sport. However, I am an ardent supporter of those who like tennis and I am here passing on a piece handed me this week about our new tennis courts at Liberty Park.

It is a shame the courts could not be built properly—if that is the fact. The Park Board cannot be blamed for the mistake. The contractor, I am sure, will and can remedy the error with not too great of an additional cost.

I asked about it and was informed the sand is to be cleaned off the court and this would remedy the sand problem. It is not too late to make the correction and I would suggest the parties involved contact someone who has the knowledge of size, construction and so forth and make the courts playable for tournament competition.

Here is the article handed me:

"If you can't take a vacation this summer and know enough about tennis to get along in the game, combine the two for an afternoon or evening on the newly completed courts in Liberty Park.

"The vacation angle works in because the surface has gaps in it like Grand Canyon and is covered with loose sand, as suggested by the contractor we understand, that is thick enough to resemble the Sahara.

"This all may be fine for a simulated vacation but not so hot for a tennis match with anyone who takes the game seriously. The courts would be out of the question for tournament play.

"Besides not giving anywhere near a true bounce, the obstacles just mentioned present no small danger to court injuries for fast players. The sand makes footing treacherous and a fall could be serious on the asphalt surface with a little sand in the wound for good measure.

"It seems a shame to have spent that much money on courts and to have waited well into the summer for their completion due to weather conditions, and to come up with a lumpy, pitted surface resembling a kiddie sand box.

"A temporary condition, to make matters worse, leaves one whole side of the courts open without fencing to protect stray balls from the mud and water collected in future construction areas. Two dollars worth of balls go down the drain with one misserve, for once a tennis ball is wet it is useless in precision play.

"Something should be done to level out the rolling surface and fill in the rough spots, once the sand is cleared away. The contractor probably knew what he was doing construction-wise but it is doubtful that he plays tennis."

Industrials Play Make-Up Games Tonite

Two "make-up" games are to be played at Housel Park in the Industrial Softball League tonight. The De Molay's and the Hudson Hornets are playing the doubleheader.

One game ended in a 5-5 deadlock earlier in the season and is to be replayed. The second game they are playing is a postponed game resulting from rain several weeks ago. Both of these games will count in the league standings.

Two good games were played Thursday night in the league when Hamm's Beer defeated the Deaver's Devils by a score of 4-1 and the Knights of Columbus defeated the Moose Club in an eight inning tilt 4-2.

In the first game Corley the winning pitcher for Hamm's gave up seven hits and struckout 13 while Windisch of the Devils allowed nine hits, struckout five.

Windisch led his team in hits getting two for three while for Hamm's Prina had three for three and Sims had two for two.

Shultz was the winning hurler for the Knights giving up only three hits while St. Cyr the loser allowed six safeties.

Hawley and Barr each had two hits.

The schedule this week:
Monday: 7:30, Engineers vs. Kilowatts; 9:00 Jaycees vs. De Molay's.

Tuesday: 7:30, Meadow Gold vs. Jolly Welders; 9:00, Moose Club vs. Deaver's Devils.

Wednesday: 7:30, Adco vs. National Engineers; 9:00 Kilowatts vs. Hudson Hornets.

Thursday: 7:30, Meadow Gold vs. Deaver's Devils; 9:00 Knights of Columbus vs. Jolly Welders.

High Gun In Winning Position At Brooklyn

NEW YORK, July 9—(AP)—The King Ranch's High Gun led all the way today to win the $56,000 Brooklyn handicap before a crowd of 27,829 at Aqueduct.

Fishing Column

Game fishing at the Gravois Arm of the Lake of the Ozarks was very slow this week though the lake has leveled off about one foot below reservoir capacity and the water is in clear and fine shape.

Lots of crappie were being caught in dock fishing and quite a number of cat fish had been caught on rod and reel and trot lines.

Black and white bass and jacks were being taken in occasionally, and the fishing was expected to break anytime especially with a cool front expected to move in the area.

The Osage at Warsaw was not too bountiful with catches the past week as the water was murky.

A 22 pound white cat was reported caught on a trot line at Fairfield along with other catches of four channel cat and three white bass.

A few channel cat were being taken in with a trot line and earlier in the week a 20 pound flat head was caught. Fourteen channels were reported caught by two men from Kansas City in the middle of the week.

Over the holiday the fishing was very poor and most of the vacation bound people were taking advantage of the weather.

Wynn And Newcombe Likely Pitchers In All-Star Meet

Odds-Makers Give Nationals Slight Edge For Event

MILWAUKEE, July 9.—Early Wynn, Cleveland's powerful right-hander, and Brooklyn's Don Newcombe, who also throws from the right side, appear to be the likely choices to obtain the starting assignments in the 22nd annual major league all-star game here next Tuesday.

The odds-makers, probably respecting power over pitching, have installed the National League squad a slight 6-5 favorite to register its ninth victory since the classic originated in 1933. The Americans, who snapped a four-game losing streak last summer with an 11-9 victory in Cleveland, have won 13. There was no game in 1945.

A capacity crowd of close to 45,000 is expected to fill every available seat in County Stadium with all tickets sold weeks ago. The game, scheduled to start at 2:00 p. m. CST, will be seen and heard via television and radio from coast to coast. Long range weather predictions are for high temperatures and higher humidity. No rain is forecast.

American League manager Al Lopez, in an effort to offset the superior punch of the Nationals, has selected a nine-man pitching squad headed by Wynn and rookie Herb Score of his own Indians, fireballer Bob Turley and southpaw Eddie Ford of the New York Yankees, righthander Dick Donovan and lefty Billy Pierce of the Chicago White Sox, righthander Frank Sullivan of Boston, Jim Wilson of Baltimore and lefthander Billy Hoelt of Detroit.

Leo Durocher, National League pilot, will go with a streamlined staff of seven that includes righthanders Robin Roberts of Philadelphia, Gene Conley of Milwaukee and Sam Jones of Chicago as well as southpaws Joe Nuxhall of Cincinnati and Harvey Haddix and rookie Luis Arroyo of St. Louis.

It probably will come as a surprise to most baseball followers that Wynn, just about the best pitcher in the American League today, has never pitched in an all-star game before. In fact, the 35-year-old veteran, who boasts 196 lifetime triumphs, was selected on an all-star squad only once previously, back in 1947. And that was only as an 11th-hour replacement for Bobby Feller, who was excused because of an injury.

Newcombe has never started before, although he has appeared in three games—in 1949, 1950 and 1951. He was charged with the loss in 1949. There is a possibility that Durocher may hand the opening assignment to Roberts who started four of the last five games. The Nationals won three of those although the Phillies' ace didn't figure in any of the decisions.

Although the working pitchers won't be named until Monday, it is almost certain the National League stars will see more speed than they've watched in a long time. Turley, Score, Sullivan, Hoelt, Pierce and Wynn currently rank No. 1 through No. 6 among the American League strikeout leaders.

Whether they can stop such fence busters as Duke Snider, Ted Kluszewski, Willie Mays, Eddie Mathews and Ernie Banks, each with more home runs than Mickey Mantle, the top American Leaguer, is anybody's guess. On paper, the senior circuit swatters far outrank their rivals by more than 100 home runs. The American League pitchers, however, have a decided edge in victories, shutouts and strikeouts.

With a couple of exceptions, the selections made by six and a half million fans and the two managers, was regarded as reasonably sound. The only grumbling in evidence was Durocher's failure to name center fielder Richie Ashburn of the Phillies, the National League batting leader; and Lopez' selection of six Indians after the fans had failed to pick a single member of the defending American League champions on the starting team.

Want Latin-American Baseball For Winter Sports In Caribbean

PANAMA, July 9.—Caribbean baseball executives served notice on United States major league clubs and Latin-American stars today that they will go to extreme lengths, to have the Latin-Americans play winter baseball in their native countries.

As a three-day meeting of the Caribbean Professional Baseball Confederation, called to arrange the eighth Caribbean series scheduled for Panama next February, got under way, the delegates appeared satisfied with a plan to meet in New York with Commissioner Ford Frick to discuss the issue. By the time the meeting ended, however, the delegates expressed readiness to accept a Cuban motion which would penalize with a suspension for four Caribbean seasons any Latin-American major leaguer who accepts payment from his club for not playing winter ball in his home country.

Players from Cuba, Venezuela, Puerto Rico and Panama are involved in the question. Puerto Rico's Ernesto Juan Fonfria said his league was ready to take into the courts of both Puerto Rico and the United States

All-Star Game Time Set For 2 p.m. CST

NEW YORK, July 9.—Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick announced today that the starting time of next Tuesday's major league all-star game has been moved back to 2 p. m. C.S.T.

Frick said the game was delayed one-half hour from the original 1:30 C.S.T. start to allow baseball figures attending the funeral of Arch Ward, Chicago Tribune sports editor who died today, time to reach Milwaukee. The funeral is scheduled for 10 a. m. C.D.T. in Chicago.

Swaps Wins Westerner

INGLEWOOD, Calif., July 9.—California's Swaps, reeling off his eighth straight victory, toyed with four rival 3-year-olds and wheeled on in to win the $57,750 Westerner at Hollywood Park today.

In the case of any Puerto Rican major leaguer who is under contract to play winter ball with his native team and then is barred by his stateside club from winter play,

Sports Champions Go To White House For Delinquency Talks

WASHINGTON, July 9.—Several champion or former champions in golf, baseball and other sports are among more than a score of sports world notables invited to the White House Monday for a conference on juvenile delinquency.

President Eisenhower hopes more young Americans can be drawn into competitive sports to halt what he has called a trend of youths to become spectators rather than sports participants.

The conference will discuss the possibility of getting greater sports participation in ways that will tend to cut delinquency.

Among those invited to the Monday meeting were Robert T. "Bobby" Jones Jr., former holder of many golfing championships; Gene Tunney, former world heavyweight boxing champion; Marine Lt. Wes Santee, the fastest American miler, several big league baseball players, well known coaches and sports officials and many others.

Murray Snyder, assistant White House press secretary, was asked if the President, in calling the meeting, had in mind recent indications that Soviet Russia is concentrating on developing competitive sports.

Snyder replied that this had no part in the President's thinking and added Eisenhower has been a sports enthusiast and participant for many years.

Besides athletes and sports officials, Vice President Nixon, Sen. Duff (R-Pa.), Snyder, and Howard Pyle, administrative assistant to the President, will attend the luncheon meeting.

CHICAGO, July 9.—In a sizzling stretch finish, Bwamazon Farm's Judy Rullah today scored a sensational neck victory over a pair of long shots to win the $96,505 Arlington Lassie Stakes.

Sports Editor Dies

Arch Ward, Chicago Sports Editor And Promotional Giant Dies In His Sleep

CHICAGO, July 9.—Arch Ward, sports editor of the Chicago Tribune and a promotional genius who originated the All-Star baseball and football games, died in his sleep this morning of a heart seizure.

The calm, mild-mannered 58-year-old Ward died in his Lake Shore drive apartment where he lived with his wife, Helen, and their son, Thomas, an employee of the United States Steel Corp.

Young Ward said his father had had several heart attacks in the last five years. He was pronounced dead by Dr. William Rothman about 8:30 a.m. after a fire department inhalator squad, summoned by the son, had worked over him for 30 minutes.

The veteran sports authority, who had been with the Tribune since 1925 and head of its sports department 25 years, was renowned internationally for his promotions which netted some five million dollars to charities. He was vice president of the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., which sponsored among others, the All-Star games, Golden Gloves boxing tournaments and international bouts, and Silver Skates ice skating meets.

Ward, relentless crusader for amateurism in collegiate athletics and conductor of the "In the Wake of the News" sports column was an intimate friend of many of sports' famous people.

He was at his desk at the Tri-

Ray Boone, third baseman for the Detroit Tigers, started his baseball career as a catcher.

White Sox outfielder Jim Rivera was credited with three assists in one game against the Kansas City Athletics. The major league record is four.

bune yesterday and later made a film recorded television interview with Will Harridge, president of the American League, for use in connection with the 22nd All-Star baseball game at Milwaukee Tuesday. He had planned to attend the game.

The classic, originated by Ward, was first played July 6, 1933, in Chicago's Comiskey park to coincide with the World's Fair.

It met with so much enthusiasm it became a fixture on the sports calendar and a promotional masterpiece that reached worldwide interest. Baseball fans over the world voted for starting lineups. Fans cast a record of more than six million ballots in the poll to select the 1955 All-Star lineup.

Ralph Dupas, DeMarco Meet Monday Night

NEW ORLEANS, July 9.—Speed-punching Ralph Dupas, retraining his sights on a new target now that Bud Smith is the new light-weight king, faces former titleholder Paddy DeMarco Monday night with an added incentive to win.

Dupas, the 19-year-old flash from the French Quarter of New Orleans, was rated No. 1 contender for the lightweight title before Smith lifted the crown from Jimmy Carter two weeks ago. A victory over the seventh-ranked DeMarco would add greater luster to Dupas' already glowing chances for a shot at the championship.

But Dupas, loser of only six of his 65 professional bouts, has an added desire to whip DeMarco, who wrested the championship from Carter more than a year ago only to lose it back to Carter in his first defense.

The 28-year-old DeMarco, once labeled the Brooklyn Billygoat, whipped Dupas on a split decision in January, 1954. The loss is the only one on his record that Dupas has not reversed.

Dupas has fought 13 times since

Actress' Son Makes Try At Going To Sea

WEST LOS ANGELES, July 9.—Christopher Crawford, eldest and most adventurous of Joan Crawford's four children, has been foiled in an attempt to run away to sea.

The 12-year-old Christopher was picked up by police last night several hours after they had received a report he had run away from home. He told officers he was going to try to sign on a ship as a cabin boy.

Miss Crawford is honeymooning in Europe with her fourth husband, Al Steele, soft-drink executive. All of her children are adopted and bear her name.

In 1954 pitcher Ruben Gomez of the Giants won his second game of the season on May 22. He celebrated the anniversary this year by winning his second game.

losing to Demarco and lost only once, an eight-round decision to Brooklyn's Frankie Ryff last September. But Dupas reversed the setback on May 17 with a bloody 10-round triumph.

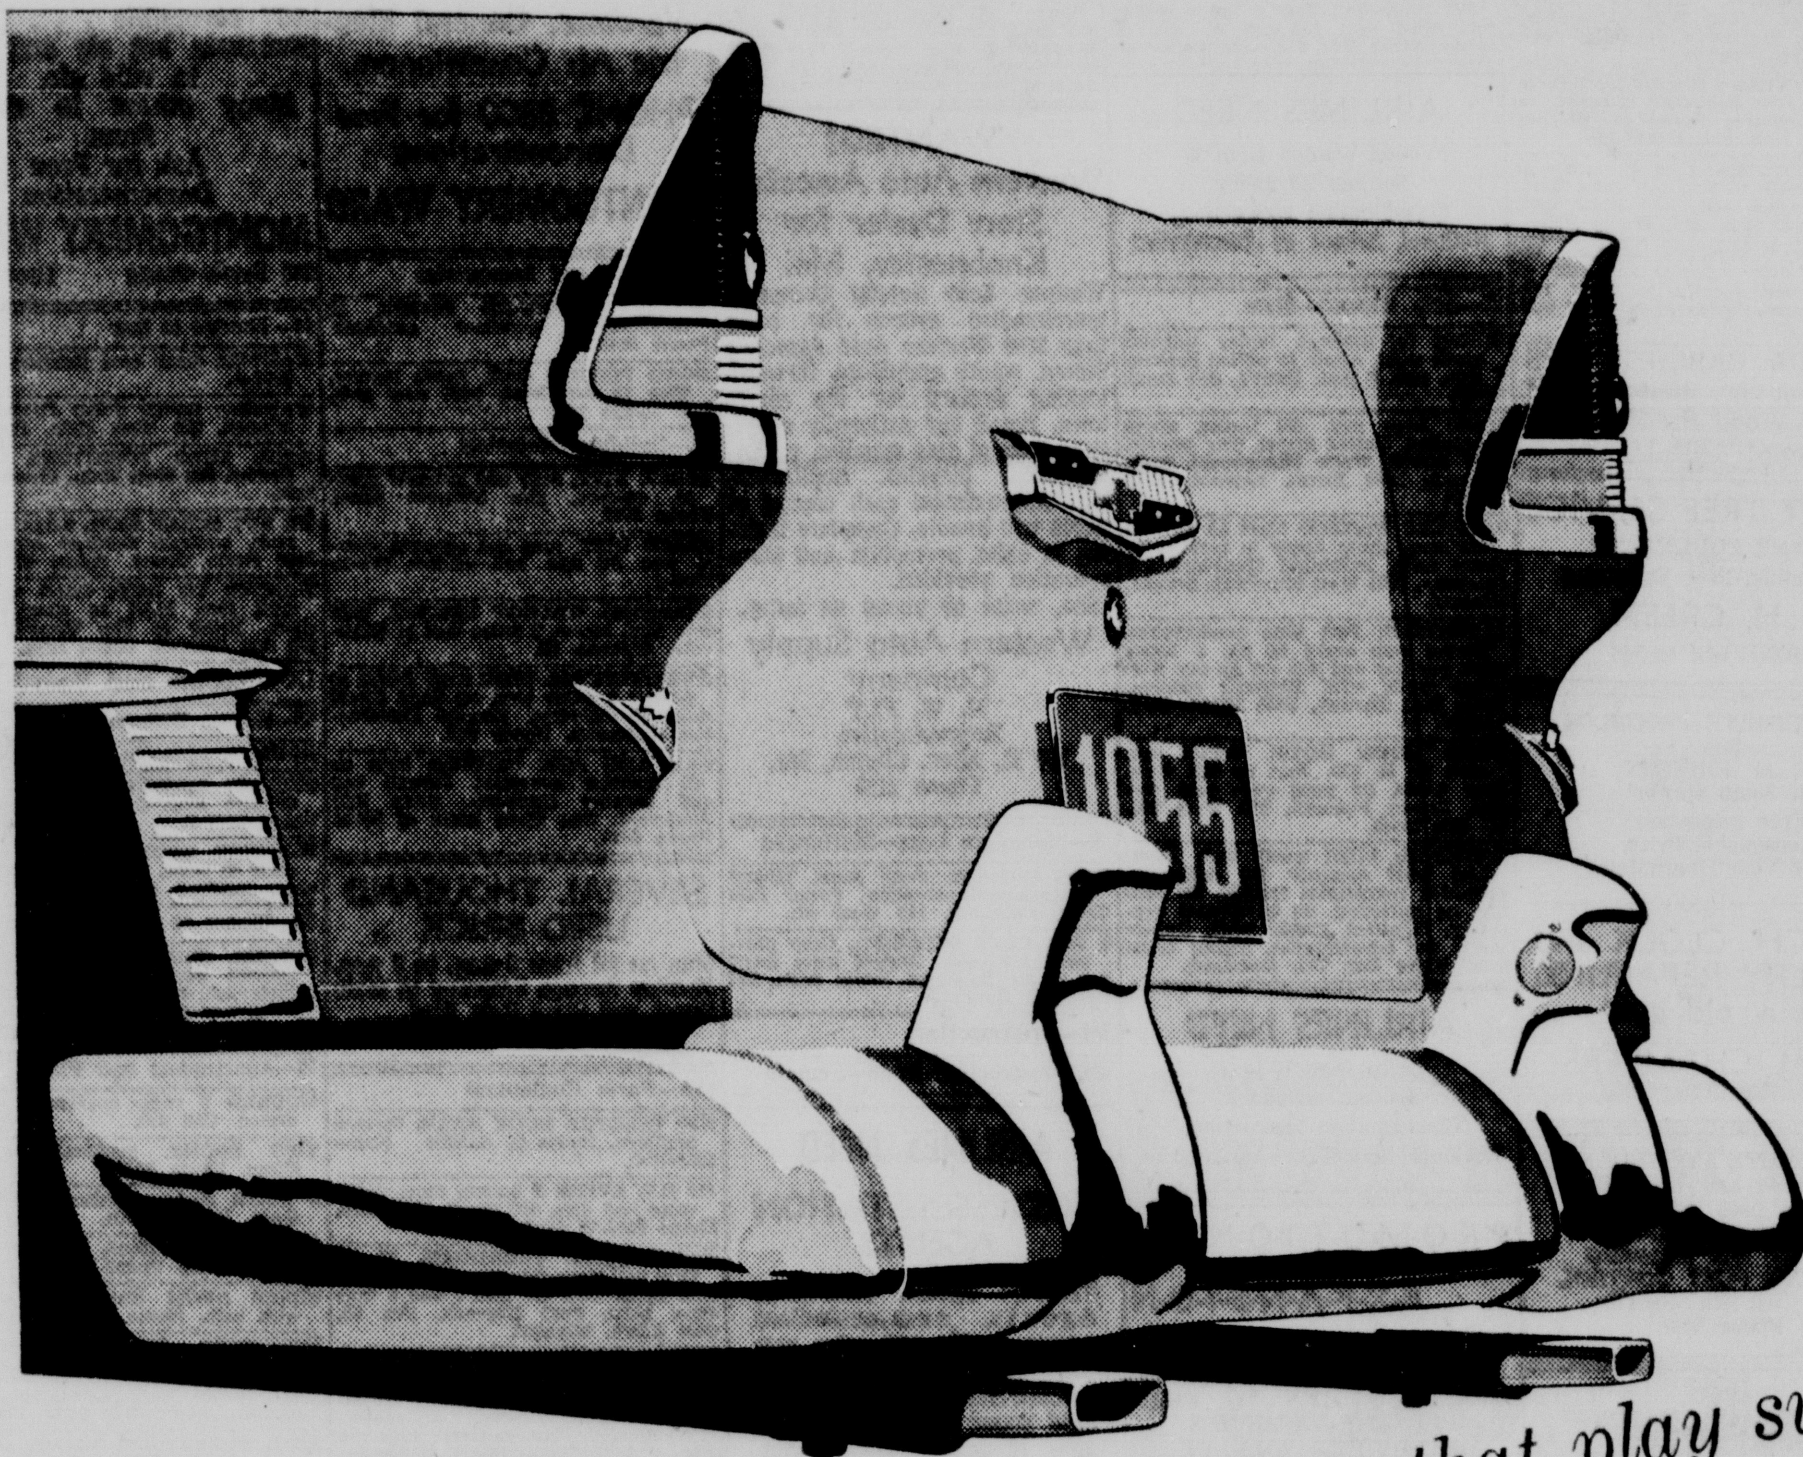

DeMarco has been in only five bouts since beating Dupas. He won the title from Carter and then took successive setbacks from Carter and youthful Seraphin Ferrer of France. He decided young Tibby Manzo in his last two outings.

Twin Pipes that play sweet music!

Chevrolet's "Super Turbo-Fire V8" with 180 h.p.

Some like it hot . . . and the hottest of the lot is Chevrolet's "Super Turbo-Fire V8."

You can spot this one by the twin tailpipes. They're easy to see because the back view is just about the only glimpse you get of this astounding performer! No matter what you drive, you're going to have to get used to the idea of seeing twin-exhaust Chevrolets pulling away—in traffic, on the toughest hills, on the long straightaways.

Unless you have a "Super Turbo-Fire V8" of your own. And then you'll know what it's like to pilot the car that sets the pace for everything else—and doesn't pause to read the price tags!

What makes the Super scat? Chevrolet's superb valve-in-head V8, with the shortest stroke in the industry, the most power per pound, and the only 12-volt electrical system in its field—all this plus a four-barrel carburetor and free-breathing twin exhausts.

Want to sample this silk-lined cyclone? Just give us a call, any day this week, and we'll be proud to show you just how hot a V8 can be.

*Optional at extra cost.

†Station wagon models have single exhaust pipes.

LIKE FATHER, LIKE SON? Herbert Hoover, Jr., poses with his famous father, the former President, while young Hoover's wife watches. GOP may have presidential ideas about Young Herb.

Former President's Son— Herbert Hoover Jr. Proves Good Leader In Government

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — At a staff lunch at the State Department the other day an official was discussing a touchy diplomatic situation involving a wealthy Australian businessman.

"I've known that guy for years," said one of the men at the table. "He's bullheaded, but if you play it straight with him you'll be O.K."

That bit of pithy, inside advice was offered by 51-year-old Herbert Hoover, Jr., son of the former President and rated the hottest piece of executive-diplomatic talent the administration has discovered.

President Eisenhower at one of his recent breakfasts for Republican women half-seriously mentioned "young Herb" as presidential material. This could be the tip-off that the GOP has big things in store for him.

Hoover laughed uproariously when he heard of the President's remark, claiming that a political career was the last thing in the world he wanted. But the deep strain of public duty which influenced him to take the post of Under Secretary of State could be used to get him to take any important job administration leaders might plan for him, close friends say.

He has had the State Department spot for almost a year, during which time he has been acting-secretary in Mr. Dulles' frequent absences. But Hoover's distaste for publicity, an apparent inbred aloofness and preoccupation with work, has kept him out of the public eye.

However, a great capacity to learn along with other talents could make him a kind of Republican secret weapon some day, insiders predict.

He moves quietly around his plush suite, dressed in beautifully-tailored, conservative suits. His black, horn-rimmed glasses dramatize his steel gray hair and square, handsome face. He greets ambassadors with a suave grace. This first glance makes you think he has been in the diplomatic business all his life.

But then you talk to him and take a closer look. There's an icy, impersonal look in his blue eyes. His hamlike hand has a grip of iron and you can't see an ounce of fat on his huge, square frame. This is the real Hoover, the man who has spent most of his life as an engineer around the oil fields of the world.

He has chewed out tough roustabouts with blue language, and made them take it. He has endured months of hard life on deserts, in mountains and on plains all over the globe, wherever some firm thought there might be oil. It's this background and experience, strange in the State Department, which accounts for much of the success he has enjoyed there.

The man who recalls Hoover's comment at the recent lunch says, "You can hardly name a country or city around the world where Herb hasn't worked or lived. This gives him a broad, first-hand knowledge of international problems and personalities which some of the most experienced men in the department don't have."

Hoover made his fortune running scientific geological surveys around the world for the oil companies of practically every land. The secret of his success in the game was his unshakable integrity in not misusing the information he gathered for them. He could have exploited it in a hundred ways. Other firms did, which was why they weren't as successful as Hoover's firm.

Thus, when Secretary Dulles announced one day that there was a desperate need to send a man to Iran who not only knew the international oil picture, but was trusted by everyone in the industry, young Hoover's name came up.

"Herb was the only man in the world who fitted that description," says Herman Phleger, the State Department's legal adviser and long-time friend of Hoover. "So I recommended him for the job."

Hoover settled the difficult Iran oil dispute so successfully that Dulles and the President asked him to take the important State post.

Since then Hoover has shown himself to be a tough, demanding but highly efficient administrator. He got his feet on the ground fast and began untangling some muddled lines of authority he found in the agency. He put Loy Henderson, a top foreign service veteran, in charge of administration.

This was both a shot-in-the-arm to foreign service morale and a boost to the department's efficiency.

Hoover's record and reputation are not unblemished, however. He's credited with a boner in framing a negative reply, when Dulles was out of town, to Communist China's suggestion for a meeting with the U.S. to work out Far East difficulties.

Some department employees feel he's too aloof, too difficult to approach and too precise in his demands for promptness, efficiency and attention to detail.

Although Hoover frankly admits he is not the gregarious type, he has surprised everyone with his talent of appearing to enjoy the three or four social affairs a week which he and his wife are forced to attend. He wears a hearing aid—from a childhood sickness—and it's natural that the rumor exists that he turns it off when a party or conversation bores him.

They have three married children and six grandchildren who visit them frequently in their large home in town. The Senior Hoover is also a regular visitor and may move in with them permanently.

There is a striking physical and personality similarity between the two men, who are very close. This similarity probably would be a mixed blessing for young Hoover if he is persuaded to enter politics.

Democrats swept into office in 1932 largely on a campaign against President Hoover masterminded by Charley Michaelson. The next three Democratic campaigns were also directed against Hoover.

It was only natural therefore, when Ike hinted the younger Hoover had presidential possibilities, that Democratic politicians should greet the announcement with glee. Democrats still think that anyone named Hoover would be easy to beat.

Young Hoover has never campaigned for elective office. In his present job he has been making a few speeches. But he reads his prepared texts mechanically, somewhat like his father. He has no political sex-appeal in his personality.

Building him into a presidential candidate on a first try might be difficult.

But some Republicans think Hoover Junior might be presented as a vice-presidential possibility in 1956. The chance of this would be greater if Ike doesn't run.

But it is the general lack of any one strong Republican candidate for the presidency, in case Eisenhower doesn't run, that would make a better prospect of the name of Herbert Hoover, Jr.

Hollyhocks Dress Up— Old Chamber Sows Good Will With Seed Gifts at the Fair

This is a little story of what may come from sowing seeds of good will and perhaps would be something very good for the citizens of the town to remember.

On Friday morning, July 8, the Chamber of Commerce office received the following letter:

Bolivar, Mo.,
July 6, 1955

Sedalia Chamber of Commerce
Sedalia, Mo.,
Dear Sirs:

Some 15 or more years ago the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce gave hollyhock seed away at the State Fair. My sister and I received a packet of the seed. We took them home and planted and from year to year we have had lovely hollyhocks in our yard. Thanks to you.

I have always tried to make Bolivar a more beautiful sight. In my yard I have used the most ugly spots and made miniature parks. "Boys Park" was created from a damaged two-story brick garage. "Girls Park" in an angle of the northeast corner of the studio building. All kinds of flowers are blooming where once was trash.

I have from year to year given hollyhock seed away to different ones so I am sure lots of the hollyhocks in Bolivar had their start from the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce.

I am hoping others in Bolivar will beautify their unsightly spots and encourage the younger ones to plant more flowers.

I wish to again thank the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce for the wonderful work it has done, yours truly,
signed, Marion Ross

Fifteen years or more ago and the hollyhock seeds given by the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce are still helping to make another town more beautiful. The important thing is that those were seeds of good will, for the Bolivar citizen who received them remembers that they came from the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce and perhaps told it every time they passed some of the seeds from their flowers on to someone else.

Out Of The Dark Into Business

ANAHEIM, Calif. — (NEA) — For Edward Friesen, paradise is a room full of gleaming tables and chairs, shining counters of food, sparkling kitchen utensils, colorful decorations.

Edward Friesen can see none of them. But he knows it's paradise. After more than a dozen years of despair over his failing eyesight and inability to keep a job, Friesen is once again a self-employed businessman.

Despite the darkness in which he walks—or perhaps because of it—he is the operator of a large industrial cafeteria that serves 200 people at a time. This cafeteria is one of 40 small business enterprises sponsored by California's Bureau of Vocational Rehabilitation.

The Bureau's motive is far more practical than the simple: "Help the Handicapped to Help Themselves."

According to John M. Spalding, Business Enterprise Officer for the BVR, "We are taking people of the Blind Aid rolls and making taxpayers of them."

Friesen's story is typical. Twelve years ago, at 32, he learned he was a victim of retinitis pigmentosa—an eye condition that gradually reduces the field of vision.

He had been a successful automobile salesman, but now driving was impossible. He turned to real estate. But he couldn't get around by himself.

He tried storekeeping. He tried storekeeping. He bought a pet shop in Santa Cruz, gave it up when he couldn't pick out customers' purchases. So Friesen and his wife bought a fruit ranch. It failed, too.

Then Friesen went to the Bureau of Vocational Rehabilitation. He was trained in a State-sponsored cafeteria and a place was found for him as operator of the Robertshaw-Fulton Aeronautical Division plant.

The company supplied the necessary space, tables, chairs, counters, sink and stoves. The state purchased $2,000 worth of equipment.

Friesen bought his own stock. And he was in business for himself. From his gross profits he pays his staff of three. Another 3 per cent goes back to the Bureau's revolving fund. And at the end of each month, he takes home about $350.

Friesen, in addition to supervising the operation with his wife's help, also handles the cash register. With only 10 per cent of his vision remaining, he must make change by sense of touch. Because his customers have to watch the clock, he must be quick.

And he is. So quick, in fact, that hardly anybody knows he is blind.

Recommended Reading Is Compiled By a TV Star

Dr. Frank Baxter, TV performer who has made millions of listeners enjoy Shakespeare, is the first to admit that TV is no substitute for reading. He says, "It can only open the eyes of the beholder to the treasures that await on the printed page." Baxter winds up with a list of 32 books that constitute his "Vitamin A Book."

Television Brings Star His Request

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD — "You can't underestimate the power of television," says Groucho Marx, and he's got the potato salad to prove it.

Recently Groucho happened to remark on his NBC quiz show that you can't hardly get good old-fashioned Germa potato salad any more.

"I got over three thousand pieces of mail about it," he re-echoes about it, he re-echoes books and recipes and so many cans and jars of potato salad that I had to send most of it to orphanages and hospitals. Three people even came to my house in Cadillac and delivered the salad."

This avalanche of potato salad has served to impress Groucho anew with not only the power but the responsibility of TV.

"It's an amazing thing," he reflected. "People react quickly to even the most casual remark. Perhaps it's because you're coming into their homes and they are very sensitive to what is said there."

He recalled a recent guesting with Horace Heidt. He asked about the duties of the talent searcher, who compared his work to that of a baseball scout.

"Now supposing the Yankees needed some players," Heidt suggested.

"The Yankees don't need any players," Groucho countered. "Now if you said the Boston Red Sox, that would make sense."

Marx received a storm of protest from Bostonians.

Such incidents make Groucho especially sensitive to public opinion. "If there's any doubt about offending someone, I don't take a chance," he said. "I never pick on people who are poor or underprivileged. But when I have a chief of police or an admiral, I can have fun with them. The public likes to see dignity deflated."

Work For Handicapped

LA CROSSE, Wis. — An industry planned to provide jobs for handicapped people is almost ready to start operations here. Warren Loveland who has given up a well-paid job to head Crusades, Inc. made the announcement.

Loveland, president of the chamber of commerce, has been active in the National Assn. for Infantile Paralysis. He has a son Stafford, 10, now being treated for polio at Warm Springs, Ga.

A survey shows there are about 100 employable handicapped people in the La Crosse area. Sub-contract work has been lined up to start Crusades, Inc. and it will eventually go into light manufacturing, Loveland says.

He expects the project to compete on a private enterprise basis. At the same time he plans to adjust the jobs so that handicapped people will have a proving ground as well as a place to polish their skills for employment in other firms. His new firm will also be an educational project to show that handicapped people can be effective workers, he says.

Although many firms do employ the handicapped, enough fail to do so to keep many people in idleness to the detriment of themselves and the community, he urges.

Evidence

RICHMOND, Va. — A woman arrested on a charge of public drunkenness was brought into court several hours later. Asked if she was still drunk she replied:

"He — certainly not."
"That's the most damaging testimony I've ever heard," remarked Trial Justice R. Dixon Powers. "Ten dollars and costs."

shelf," "must" reading for everybody from the age of seven to seventy but heavily inclined toward the older literary productions.

Dr. Baxter's list one (from the ages of seven to twelve): "Silver Pennies: A Collection of Poetry for Boys and Girls"; Stevenson's "A Child's Garden of Verses"; Hawthorne's "Wonder Book"; Lang's "Fairy Tales"; Bunyan's "Pilgrim's Progress"; Defoe's "Robinson Crusoe"; Swift's "Gulliver's Travels"; Wyss's "Swiss Family Robinson"; Carroll's "Alice in Wonderland"; Kipling's "Just So Stories"; Scott's "Ivanhoe"; Lamb's "Tales From Shakespeare"; Verne's "The Mysterious Island"; Twain's "Tom Sawyer"; Dickens's "A Christmas Carol"; Stevenson's "Treasure Island"; a children's edition of "The Arabian Nights."

Dr. Baxter's second list is "best after twelve": Scott's "Lady of the Lake"; Kipling's "Puck of Pook's Hill"; Verne's "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea"; London's "The Call of the Wild"; Dickens' "David Copperfield"; Twain's "Huckleberry Finn"; Auslander and Hill's "The Winged Horse Anthology"; Macaulay's "Lays of Ancient Rome"; Dickens' "A Tale of Two Cities"; Tennyson's "Idylls of the King"; Kingsley's "Westward Ho!"; Blackmore's "Lorna Doone"; English and Scottish folk ballads; Stevenson's "Kidnapped"; Dana's "Two Years Before the Mast."

If some of Dr. Baxter's list leave the reader cold, never mind. There are others who have not enjoyed them either. Instead of Blackmore's "Lorna Doone" or Dickens' "A Tale of Two Cities" one may enjoy other equally good titles. But it is important to read some of the best in literature along with escape reading, modern novels and utilitarian books on handicrafts, TV repair and farming. These are available from Boonslick Regional Library.

Finally Given Medals Won In World War I

PORTLAND, Ore. — Frank Lechleider, World War I infantryman who saw action in France in 1917, has a couple of new medals from the Department of the Army.

Proudly displaying a Silver Star and Purple Heart, he said they arrived only this week, more than 32 years after they were awarded.

The 73-year-old Portlander says he was told of the decorations upon his discharge from the Army in 1923. But it took all these years and three letters to Washington, he said, before he got action. Lechleider said the latest query was mailed two weeks ago.

Popular Sentiment Growing-- Schools May Solve Problem By Opening in the Summers

By Douglas Larsen
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON — This could be the last time they lock up the entire U. S. school system and throw away the key for the whole summer.

Sentiment is growing among some educators and civic groups around the country for using the country's school facilities during the summer to help alleviate the serious shortage of classrooms.

The question is highly controversial among parents, teachers and school officials. It could become one of the most hotly debated problems at the big White House Conference on Education which the President has called for next November to help solve the crisis in American education.

The question of finding some way to keep public schools open during the summer has been raised at the state conferences which have been held in preparation for the coming White House meeting.

The U. S. office of education, the National Education Association and other education groups are studying all aspects of the matter.

Already this summer a major step will be taken to try to use the shop, laboratory, auditorium, recreational and other facilities of schools during the vacation period. This is a result of growing conviction among all educators that communities have not had the most efficient use of their school plants for recreation and adult education.

The idea will be tried extensively in California, for example. And in Grand Rapids, Mich., schools built to be usable during vacation periods for recreational purposes will be open all summer.

Some educators say that the Grand Rapids plan could also show the way for partial use of schools for their primary educational purpose throughout the summer.

Leading expert at the USOE on the subject is Dr. Walter H. Gaumnitz, a specialist on the problems of smaller high schools.

"The question of making use of schools during the summer is an issue educators are going to have to face very soon to keep faith with their responsibilities to the citizens," he insists.

"There's nothing sacred or scientific about educating children

PREVIEW OF SUMMER IN GRAND RAPIDS: These are fourth graders in a classroom of one of the city's schools built to be usable during vacation periods. It will stay open all summer.

only in winter, spring and fall. The only real obstacle to using school facilities in the summer is hidebound tradition among teacher and some citizens' groups."

He contends that the summer vacation habit stems from the early days of the country when children were needed around the farm and home to work. That reason no longer exists in American life, he says.

Teacher groups generally oppose the idea because of the difficulty of adjusting their administrative habits to a 12-month year, and for other reasons. A recent poll conducted by a leading education magazine showed 72 per cent of the teachers queried against the idea.

Dr. M. Stinnett, executive secretary of the National Commission for Teacher Education and Professional Standards, says "the idea that the schools should be operated the year-around is one shifts of children attending six months each.

The USOE estimates that by 1959 there will be about 1,300,000 classrooms in the U. S., leaving a shortage of about 176,000. Adding 25 per cent more usage of classrooms by summer sessions would eliminate this shortage, a USOE spokesman admits.
